

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

Google's mission is to organize the world's information and to make it universally accessible and useful. Google Book Search helps readers discover the world's books while helping authors and publishers reach new audiences. IN LITTLE SAXHAM CHURCH.

In the north wall of the chancel are the remains of the cenotaph of Thomas Lucas, which Chitting notices in these words: "A tomb of stone, made for Thomas Lucas, Solicitor to Henry VII, which has scutcheons of his and wife's coats, but he was never buried in it."—It was an altar tomb standing under an arch that opened into the Lucas Chapel; the arch is now filled up, and these shields of the tomb are inserted in the wall. 1. Lucas and Morrieux quarterly. 2. Lucas impaling Morrieux. 3. Lucas and Morrieux quarterly, impaling Kemys. 4. Kemys.

Chester Herald, speaking of the Lucas Chapel, says, "In a chappell on the north side of the church, built by Lucas, a very fayer window of excellent work in glass, but almost all broken downe and defaced."

* Weever speaks of the effigy of Lucas, in his coat armour, with his wife and children.

"On a gravestone, and on a wall there :

Orate p. aia. Margerit, uxoris
Jasperi fil. & haeredis Thome Lucas
Armigeri, fil. & haeredis tam Roberti Gedding
Armigeri quam Consanguin. et hered.
Gilb'ti Betchy, militis, et Joh'is Aspall, Ar:
qui obiit xxi. die Septembris, Anno Dom. 1515. 7. S. viij.

"Four scutcheons, but only one left : Lucas impales Gedding, G. a cheveron Erm. inter three egles' heads Or, rased."*

Hic jacet Margeris, uxor Jasperi, filii senioris Thomae Lucas, Armigeri, cui'
 Arma in quodam lapide marmoreo in pariete istius Capelle iuxta altare et imagin' B'fissime Virginis Mariae sunt fixa, cum quadam scriptura in tabula' insculpt. script. et degicta."

Thus far, Chester Herald.—There are three grave-stones in the Lucas Chapel, which have all been stripped of their brasses.

IN ST. MARY'S CHURCH, BURY ST. EDMUND'S.

In the south chancel aisle following inscription and arms remain : Quarterly 1 and 4 [Argent] a fess between six annulets [Gules] Lucas. 2 and 3, a bend Argent billettée Sable, a crescent for difference. Crest, a dragon's head [Gules] issuant out of a ducal coronet [Or] Lucas.

Here in this grave and vnder this one stone
 Doth Edmond rest, this Henrie's eldest sonne
 Who ending so, as better due could none
 Immortall ioye for mortall life hath wonne.
 A fervent zeale vnto the trewth he bare
 And fixte his faith on Christ most constantly
 As at his death his wordes did well declare Vnto the ioye of all the standers by
 Thus here ye see of tree and fruit the fall
 Of sire & sonne I meane whom death hath slayne
 God make us prest† for him when he shall call
 That heven throughtw Christ wee may here afte' gayne:
Aervmnarv'. requies . mors.

Obiit . quinto . die . ivlii . anno . d'm' . 1575 .

The Chitting MS. states that brasses with the effigies of Henry Lucas (of Saxham, ob. 1559), and his arms and those of Lucas quarterly with Morieux, and Lucas impaling Neville, and inscriptions to himself and his son, were to be seen in the south aisle of the chancel of St. Mary's Church. Edmund, the son, married Frances, daughter of Sir Thos. Neville, 3d son of Richard Lord Latimer. The crest of Lucas was probably used in compliment to the Duke of Bedford.

A MS. volume of Church Notes in the possession of the late Mr. John Wodderspoon mentions the following arms as remaining on three escutcheons. "1. Lucas. Argent, a fesse between six annulets Gules, three and three; quartered with...A bend Ermine, on the fesse point a crescent for difference. This impaled with ... Gules, a saltier Or, somewhat on it as if it were a stroke like cotized in a field either Vert or Sable, as appears by that in glass. 2. Frettée. 3....A fess between 6 cross crosslets three and three. 4. Joy. A fesse, in chief 3 martlets, in base a chevron. Above be Lucas quartered with a bend seeming waivé. The crest is a dragon's head issuing out of a crown."

* This coat of Geddyng is given in the same manner by Harvey.

Prob: 31 March, 1598.

1617.—John Colte, of Bury St. Edmund's, Suffolk. In the name of the father and of the sonne and of the holie ghoste, Amen. I, John Colte, of Bury Saint Edmund's, in the countie of Suffolke, being sick in bodye, but whole in mind, &c., do bequeath my soule unto god, &c., &c. Item, I give to my sister Colte, all my bedding which is in my chamber, the bedstead, bolster and pillowe, with the coverlett, blankettis and rugg, and whatsoever belongeth to the bedd. And also, I doe give to her the cofer of Lynnen standing by the bedside, with all the Lynnen therein, and whatsoever is abroad of my Lynnen. Item, I doe give to Sr Henry Colte, my cubbards of booke, and all other books that are myne. And I doe give hym my deske. Item, I give to my nephew John Colte, a Bond of thirtie pounds that Thomas Bartham, of Cavendishe, doth owe me, with all the profitte of the morgage thereto belonging. And also, I do give hym my boxe of Lynnen and shirte Bandes and Cuffes, and my greate cofer with the naperye in yt, and my black cloke, and my newe suite of Apparell. Item, I give unto my neice Anne Colte, the house and lands thereunto belonging, in the occupation of Richard Smythe, in Cavendishe. Item, I do give to my nephew Edward Colt, all my house, tenement, lands, &c., &c. Provided alwayes that the said Edward Colt shall have nothing to do with the said lands, untill my Executor hath fullie pformed my Will & Testament, payed my debts, &c., &c. Item, I give unto my Sister and my sister Lovell, twentie pounds, to each of them tenne pounds, to be payed out of a Bond due from one John Westropp, of Stanfield, as a token of my love and remembrance to them. Item, I give to the towne of Cavendish, the somme of twentie pounds, to be payed within one yere after my deathe, the same to be employed to the best gain and behoofe to the poore of the sayed parische, and by the discretion and advise of Sr Henry Colt, knight, and my Executor, shall be thought fittest. And yf my said nephew John Colt shall not surrender all his rights and interest which he hath, or hereafter may have in, and to the coppis Landes holden of the mannor of Howghton hall, in Cavendishe, within the said countie, to the use of the said Edward Colt and his heires, within six monethes next after my decease. Then my will and meaning is that the sayed Edward Colt shall have the profitte of the sayed land, and mortgage of Thomas Bartham's formerlie given and bequeathed to my sayed nephue; as aforesayed. Item, my will and meaning is, that my Executor shall have and possess all my Landes and Tenementes, and the Rents and profitts thereof, lying, set, and beyng in Cavendishe aforesayed, until my debts be fullie payed, and the Legaceys given by this my last will and testament satisfied. Item, I make my brother in lawe Sr Roger Bell, my sole executor of this my last will & testament. And yf my nephue John Colt, or my nephue Edward Colt, shall not permitt and suffer my Cosen Leonard Smythe and Margery his wife, and the longer liver of them, to hould and quietlie enjoie the Tenement standing upon the sayed Coppie ground (paying yerelie one capon at the feaste of the Nativitie of our lorde god). Then my meaning is, that he or they that shall dispossesse them shall have no benefit by this my last will & testament. Item, I will that my nephewe Edward Colt shall paye unto my nephue ffauncis Bell, fortie shillings of lawfull money of Englande at the feast of our Ladie and St. Michaell, and yerelie during the terme of twelve yeres after the said Edward shall take profitte of the said Landes & Tenements. Item, I give to my sister Leet, tenne pounds, to be paid within one yere, and after my debts be satisfied. In witnesse whereof I have set my scale and subscribed my name, the 24th of Aprill, 1617, John Colt. Item, my will & meaning is, that my cosin Thomas Colt shall have his dwelling in the house wherein he is during hya naturall life, paying a capon yerelie. Witnesses to the will, Thomas Baker, Richard Horne.

PAYNE WILLS.

14 June, 1568.—Will of Henry Payne, of Bury St. Edmund's, co. Suffolk, Esq. Anthony Payne, gent., & Edward Payne, the brothers of the deceased, & Wm. Cooke, Gentleman, were appointed Executors, & Sir Giles Allington, Knt., the supervisor.

Testator directed his body to be buried "as a Xpen carcas," in the parish church of Newton, of which he was patron, on the left side of the chancel, where the altar used to stand, with a convenient monument, at the discretion of his Ex'ors, & he ordered that within 15 days after his decease, they should give to 3 score poor householders of each of the parishes of St. Mary & St. James, in St. Edmund's bury, 3 score bushels of rye, that they and their families might pray for him, & that his Ex'ors should distribute among the poor prisoners in the gaol of St. Edmund's-bury, 2 bushels of rye, to be baked for them, together with as much meat as 10 shillings would purchase, & 6s. 8d. in money, & that an annual allowance should be made them of wood during the space of 20 years. He gave 54 shillings for the maintenance of the ancient building & monuments of the church of St. Mary's aforesd, but not to be employed for any new work; & he also gave 20 shillings for the reparation of the church of Newton, to the poor men's boxes of Newton & several other churches, small sums of money, & to the Ex'ors & supervisor of his will specific legacies, Among those to Sir Giles Allington, the Testator's best gelding & his Chaucer "written in vellum and illumyned in gold," & among those to Wm Cooke, the Testator's book of entries & assizes, & a standing cup with a cover all gilt, that was parcel of the countess of Bath's plate, & also a cloth of fair work that hung over the cupboard in his room, with the story of Noe & the creation of the World. He gave various legacies to his sisters Cokfote, Sparrow, Pratt, & Gaytewayde, & to some of their children named in his will, as also to children of his sister Frances, & of his brother Cooke, & to all the children of his brother Nicholas Payne, except his eldest son & heir apparent, William.

He devised in fee to his kinsman, Walter Payne, son of his late brother John Payne, the house where the testator dwelt, in College Street, in St. Edmund's-bury, with the College Hall & another house adjoining, & gave him a legacy of 300 marks, beside the furniture & effects therein specified, requiring that he should join in a release of the manor of Newton, which the Testator had settled upon his brother Anthony Payne & his family, & he gave to Wm., James, & his wife, mother of the sd Walter Payne, 40s., & to his brother Edward Payne, his household furniture belonging to, & all the bricks & tiles made at his manor of the Clees, in Essex.

And, noticing that he had purchased of Sir Wm. Drury certain parcels of land in Newton and Hawsted, he directed that Wm. Drury, Esq., son of Robt., & grandson of Sir Wm., should have the option of purchasing or redeeming the same for 9 score & ten pounds, but as they were convenient to be held with the Testator's manor of Newton, in order to induce the sd Wm. Drury to give up the repurchase, the testator bequeathed to him a nest of bowls double gilt, with a cover with the arms graven thereon of the Earl of Oxford & his lady, & the testator's best silver basin & ewer, with the arms of Peyton thereon, & 3 cushions of velvet for the furnishing of his house at Hawsted; and if he should repurchase, the testator revoked the sd bequests, giving him in such case for his good will toward the children of his brother Anthony, a gold ring and a fair turquoise. And he devised the same lands, if Wm. Drury declined the purchase, to his brother Anthony for life; rem^r successively to his sons John, Thos., and Wm. Payne in tail male.

And he gave to his god-daughter Mary Drury, sister of Sir Wm. Drury, 5 marks, and to lady Corbett, his dapple grey gelding, which he had bought of Mark, the Physician, and also a little trencher salt of silver, with a cover all gilt, and his casting bottle of silver parcel gilt for rose-water, as a remembrance, desiring her to pray for him. And among other dispositions, the testator devised to his brother Nicholas Payne and Wm. his son, the manor of Netherhall, in Soham, in Cambridgeshire, on their payment to his Ex'ors of £100. And he gave to his late servant John Orras, and the before mentioned Wm. Cooke, all the furniture of the testator's chambers in Lincoln's Inn.

 Proved (cur. prærog. Cant.) 2 Feb. 1568-9.

KYTSON WILLS.

10th December, 1561.—Will of the Countess of Bath. She bequeathed to the young Earl of Bath one hundred pounds, and all such stuff and implements of household as then remained in the house of Tawstock, in the county of Devon; and she willed that he should remain in the custody of her daughter Fitzwarren, his mother, until he attained twenty-one years; to each of her daughters, the Lady Susan and the Lady Bridget, she gave nine hundred marks, besides six hundred marks provided for them by the marriage settlement of the Earl of Bath; to her daughter, the Lady Susan, her tablet of gold of the coin of double ducat; to her daughter, Lady Bridget, her best book of gold set with diamonds and turkarries; to her daughter, Lady Elizabeth Bourchier, two hundred marks; to her son, George Bourchier, Esq., forty pounds. And reciting that her late husband, Sir Richard Long, by his last will and testament, had bequeathed to each of her daughters, Jane, Catharine, and Mary, certain sums of money, the testatrix directed the same to be paid, and gave to every of them six hundred marks, to be paid at the age of sixteen years or marriage; and, in case of their decease before such time, then equally between her children, Anne, Henry, and Thomas; to her son, Thomas Kytson, she gave two hundred marks, and his father's best chain of gold, and his best turquoise ring of gold, and fifteen pieces of hanging tapestry work, which late were the said Earl of Bath's, and all the household stufte whatsoever, and all the harness and ammunition of war remaining and being at her houses of Hengrave, Chevington, and Newington, plate and jewels, except one cypruse chest, with all the linen clothes therein contained; to her daughter Kytson, her carkanet of pearls, with the flower of diamond hanging upon the same lace, and also her unicorn's bone; * to her son, Henry Long, one hundred pounds in money or in plate, and one chain of gold, which was the said Earl of Bath's; and the testatrix gave Henry his own wardship and marriage, and all the household stuff remaining at her death in her son Kytson's house, in which he commonly dwelt, in London, and at her house of Shengay and Hardwicks, except such plate, jewells, and household stuff as were the said Earl's before marriage with her; to the Lady Fitzwarren she gave her two best gowns, her two best kyrtels, and her best brilliant of gold set with pearl, and one cypruse chest, and all the linen clothes therein contained, with other things of divers sort meet for women lying in child-bed; to the Lady Packington, her daughter, twenty pounds, a brooch with a great diamond, and her second ring set with a diamond; to her daughter, Anne Spring, forty pounds, one gown, one kirtle, one brooch, one brilliant, and her tablet with sapphire, and all the household stufte which was the late Earl's, and which some time remained at his house in Holborne, and was then at her son's house in Milk Street: to John Spring, her son, threescore pounds at his age of twenty-one years; in case of his death before that age, she gave the same to her daughter Spring: to her daughter, Jane Long, a gown, a kirtle, a brilliant, a brooch, and a chain of gold; to her daughter, Catherine Long, a gown, a kirtle, a brilliant, a brooch, and a long girdle of gold; to her daughter, Mary Long, two gowns, two kirtles, a plain chain of gold, a carkanet, and one lace of pearls; to the eldest daughter of the late Lady Spencer, the deceased daughter of the testatrix, her best brooch; it being the will of the testatrix that her daughters should in order choose any of her apparel; to her son, Thomas Kytson, she gave the deer, horses, cattle, and stock in the manors of Chevington and Hengrave; to Henry Long all the stock in his manors; to her son-in-law, Mr. Barnaby, one hundred pounds, and a ring of gold with a diamond; to all her servants living with her at the time of her decease three pounds, except several persons to whom she gave larger sums; to all the servants of her son Kytson forty shillings; to John Dassell, for taking of pains in writing of that her testament, five pounds. The testatrix gave her personal property, not specifically bequeathed, to her executors for better payment of her debts and legacies; the residue, after discharging the same, she bequeathed to such of her daughters as should be unmarried at her decease. And she appointed her trusty and well-beloved sons-in-law, Sir John Spencer and Sir Thomas Packington, her son Thomas Kytson, and her son-in-law William Barnaby, executors of her will, and to be associated with them her loving friend Henry Payne; to each of whom she gave twenty pounds: and the testatrix did heartily desire that the right worshipfull her brother, Sir Thomas Cornwallis, should be aider to her executors, and she gave to him as a token of her remembrance, and to my lady his wife, and to the right worshipfull Sir William Cordell, and to her right loving friend Sir John Sulyarde, a ring of gold of the value of five marks.

25 June, 1601.—Will of Sir Thomas Kytson. Directed that his body should be buried in Hengrave Church, where he requested that a tomb should be erected, adjoining to that of his father. He ordered his executors to pay to the poor people of St. Edmund's Bury, Hengrave, Risby, Westley, Fornham All Saints, Fornham St. Martin, Fornham St. Genevieve, Chevington, Hargrave, Lackford, and Flempton, five pounds a-piece. And, after stating that by his means and procurement there was a marriage had and solemnized between the Earl of Bath and his sister-in-law, Mrs. Mary Cornwallis, which did prove most unfortunate* and to her great hinderance, the testator did therefore bequeath to her three hundred pounds. And noticing that he had sold the manor of Stoke Michell, in Somersetshire, which had been assured by him to his kinsman Thomas Kytson, in the service of the Earl of Shrewsbury, in lieu thereof the testator gave him five hundred pounds. He expressed his will to be, that the manor of Berelytchett, in Dorsetshire, should remain to Thomas Kytson, son and heir of Jervis Kytson, deceased, and his heirs, according to the tenor of a conveyance executed by the testator. And he directed that his manor of Burwiston cum Kington, in the same county, should be sold toward the payment of his debts and legacies. Among other legacies, he gave to Robert Kytson, son of Jervis, three hundred pounds; to Thomas Cassel, the boy that was in his chamber, twenty pounds; to John Grey, the poor fellow in his kitchen, forty shillings during his life; and to all his other household servants, male and female, resident at Hengrave Hall at the time of his decease, forty shillings a piece: bequeathing his household stuffs and furniture, plate, and the residue of his effects, to Dame Elizabeth his wife; whom he named executrix of his will.

Proved at London, 13 February, 1602.

* The contract was declared null, and the Earl afterward married Elizabeth, daughter of Francis Russel, fourth Earl of Bedford. Vide History of Hengrave, p. 187; also, "Answer to Mrs. Mary Cornwallis, &c., by Francis Davison," appended to the Poetical Rhapsody, edited by Sir Harris Nicolas, vol. ii., p. 387. In 1626, Lady Kytson charged her manor of Lackford with an annuity of twenty pounds, payable to her sister the Countess of Bath. The match appears in the Cornwallis pedigree, compiled in 1560; and the arms of Bourchier impaled with Cornwallis are to be seen on the tomb of Sir Thomas Cornwallis, in Brome Church.

Mentions her niece "the ladie Fitch, wife to S^r William fitch, K^t;" her nephews Thomas Grey, Esq., and S^r Frederick Cornewalleys, Baronet; to every child of her grandchildren a silver bowl of the value of ten pounds. The testatrix directed her mansion of Clerkenwell House, in Middlesex, and her furniture and plate there, to be sold, and confirmed the conveyances executed by her of the manors of Lackford and Fornham St. Martin; which, subject to trusts for the discharge of her debts and legacies, were limited to uses for the benefit of Lady Rivers and Lady Penelope Gage. The residue of her personal estate the testatrix gave to Lady Rivers and Lady Savage; appointing Thomas Viscount Savage, Sir John Gage, and Thomas Covel, executors of her will.

Proved at London, 24 November, 1628.

7 May, 1644.—Will of Mary Countess Rivers. Requested to be interred near her daughter, Susan Darcy, in the Church of Holy Trinity, at Colchester, desiring that her body should be borne to the grave by four poor persons of the parish; that no sermon should be preached at her funeral; that there should be no eating and drinking, usual on such occasions; and that no mourning should be given for her; bequeathing to the poor of the parish twenty pounds. The testatrix confirmed all deeds of appointment and settlements executed by her of her real estates, and directed her executors to pay the legacies specified in the schedule in her hand-writing, and to give the sums of money which she had tied up in little bags, to the several persons whose names were labelled upon them; and, after various specific bequests, she gave the residue of her personal estate to Sir Harbottle Grimston, and Sir Thomas Honeywood, appointing them her executors.

Proved at London, 16 November, 1644.

MONUMENTAL INSCRIPTIONS TO THE KYTSON FAMILY, IN HENGRAVE CHURCH.

I. In the north-east angle of the chapel is a well-executed tomb, constructed of marble, and free-stone coloured, to the memory of Margaret, Countess of Bath, and her three husbands, Sir Thomas Kytson, Sir Richard Long, and John Bourchier, Earl of Bath. Figures of the Earl and Countess, on a raised altar, recline under a canopy supported by six pillars. He is clad in armour, girded with his sword, having gauntlets on his hands, which are joined in the attitude of prayer; his beard long and bipartite, a ruff round his neck, at his feet a hawk with expanded wings. The Countess is habited in her robe of scarlet and ermine, over black, fastened at the neck by a large brooch. On her head she wears a close black coif, encircled by a coronet; at her feet is couched a talbot, collared. On the wall next the effigy of the Earl, is this inscription :

Here lyeth the body of the Right Honorable John Bourchier Fitzwarren, Earl of Bath, who married Eleanor Mannors, Daughter to the Lord Roose, (by whom he had issue John Lord Fitzwarren, who married Frances the daughter of Sir Thomas Kytson Knt) afterwards to the Lady that lieth here intombed; by whom he had two daughters, the Lady Susan and Bridget, and departed this life the xxth of Mar. m.d.lx. aged lxxij.

On the entablature of the tomb, in three compartments, is the following epitaph in memory of the Countess :

Here lyethe the Right Honourable Margaret Countess of Bathon, daughter and heire of John Donnington, Esquier, first married Sr Thomas Kytson, Knight, by whom she had issue, one sonne, and four daughters; next, to Syr Richard Longe, Knight, by whom she had one sonne and thre daughters, and last, to y^e right honorable John Earl of Bathon, by whom she had two daughters; and departed this life the xii. day of January, in ano. Dni. m.d.lxj, et a^o aetat. suaec. lij.

On the step in front of the tomb is placed a recumbent figure of Sir Thomas Kytson, in armour; he has a round head of hair, and smooth chin; his feet rest against a unicorn's head couped. The frieze of the tomb has these lines :

Here lyethe Sir Thomas Kytson, Knight, who first married the Daughter of by whom he had issue one Daughter named Elizabeth; * next he married Margaret, the Daughter and heyer of John Donnington, Esquire, and, by her, had issue Sir Thomas Kytson, Knight, Katherin, Dorothy, Francys, and Anne, as in their several scutchions appereþe; and departed thys lyfe ye xith of September, Anno Domini m.d.xl, aetatis lv.

On the front of the tomb are carved three escutcheons; the centre one displays the arms and crest of Sir Thomas Kytson. On the dexter shield are his arms impaling those of Margaret, his second wife, Donnington, quartering Pye. On the sinister shield are the arms of Sir Thomas Kytson, the son, and Jane his first wife; Kytson quarterly with Donnington, impaling Paget. On the east side are the arms of Sir Thomas Kytson, the son, and Elizabeth his second wife; Kytson impaling Cornwallis quarterly; viz., 1st, Cornwallis; 2nd, Buxton; 3rd, Braham; 4th, Teye; 5th, Tyrrell; 6th, Stamford; 7th, Sable, crusilly of crosetts, a lion rampant Argent; 8th, Sable, a chevron between three standing cups covered Argent, Butler; 9th, Sable, fretty and a chief Argant, on the chief a lion passant regardant of the field, Mapershall. On the west side of the tomb, in an ornamental panel, is the coat of Kytson, impaling Argent on a fess Azure, between three fleurs-de-lis of the second, as many trefoils slipped Or. These arms probably belong to the elder Sir Thomas Kytson's first wife, whose name does not appear on the monument. On the frieze, at the same end of the tomb, are the escutcheons of Sir Thomas Kytson's daughters, with the names of their husbands and themselves; viz. 1st, Croftes impaling Kytson; 2nd, Argent, a fess between six sea-mews' heads erased Gules, Spencer, of Wormleighton,* impaling Kytson; 3rd, Party per chevron Sable and Argent, in chief three mullets Or, in base as many garbs Gules, Packington, impaling Kytson; 4th, Bourchier, quarterly as before, impaling Kytson; 5th, Argent, on a chevron, between three maces Gules, as many cinquefoils Or, Spring, impaling Kytson.

* This Elizabeth was married to — Crofts; Catherina to Sir John Spencer. Arg., a fess inter six eagles' heads erased Gu. Dorothy, to Sir Thomas Packington; Frances, to John Lord Fitz-Warren; Anne, to William, son and heir of Sir John Spryng, of Cockfield, Suffolk.—Martin's Church Notes, Cullum MSS.

The canopy of the monument is flat, and has on its summit a square panelled shrine, the front of which displays the shield of the Earl of Bath, with supporters and motto, and the arms of Bourchier quarterly, impaling Donnington quarterly. On the west side of the shrine is the shield of Sir Richard Long, his arms quarterly, impaling Donnington. Underneath is written, "Sir Richard Longe & ye Lady Kytson." At the angles of the canopy are figures of naked boys holding escutcheons; two of them bear the arms of the Earl's daughters, by Margaret his Countess; viz. Bourchier, with a blank impalement, subscribed "Susan Bourchier"; and Gules, a chevron Argent, between three mullets pierced Or, Pryce impaling Bourchier, subscribed "Pryce and Bridget." On a third shield are the arms of the Earl of Bath, and Eleanor his wife; viz. Bourchier, quarterly as before, impaling Manners, as follows; Quarterly, 1st, Or, two bars Azure, a chief quarterly of the second and Gules, the first and fourth quarter charged with two fleur-de-lis of the field, in the second and third a lion of England, Manners; 2nd, Gules, three water-bougets Argent, Roos; 3rd, Gules, three Catharine wheels Argent, Espec; 4th, Azure, a Catharine wheel Argent, Trusbut: underneath is written, "The Earle of Bathon and Eleanor Mannors." A fourth shield, between the two last, larger than the rest, and surmounted by a knight's helmet, crested by a Saracen's head, displays the arms of Bourchier quarterly as before.

II. In the chancel, against the south wall, is the tomb of Sir Thomas Kytson, the son, corresponding much in form and size with his father's monument, though perhaps rather more elegant. The recumbent effigies of himself in armour, and of his two wives, each in the habit of the times, with large ruffs and cockle-shell hats, are placed beneath a canopy supported by Corinthian pillars. At his feet is a unicorn's head; at those of his second wife a white hart couchant, wreathed about the neck with oak, and vulned in the shoulder. On the front of the tomb are carved two escutcheons, the one having the arms of Kytson impaling Paget; the other, those of Kytson impaling Cornwallis. On the west side of the tomb are two female figures kneeling, and on the entablature above, are the escutcheons of Sir Thomas Kyston's two daughters; one bearing the arms of Cavendish, quarterly, impaling Kytson; the other those of Darcy impaling Kytson. On the summit of the canopy a highly-ornamented shield displays the arms and crest of Kytson. On the frieze of the monument is written:

Here lyeth the body of Sir Thomas Kytson, Knight, first married to Jane, one of the daughters of ye Lord Pagett, who dying without issue, he next married Elizabeth, ye eldest daughter of Sr Thomas Cornwallis,
Knight, by whom he had one sonne,
that died in his infancie,
and two daughters, Margaret and Mary; ye first married to Sr Charles Cavendish, Knight;
the other to the Lord Darcie of Chich.[†]
He departed this life ye xxvijth of January,
m.d.c.ij, and in the year of his age lxij.

This monument was erected at ye charge of Dame Elizabeth Kytson, in memory of her beloved husband, Sepr. xxth. m.d.c.viij.

* The blazon of the coat is here given from the monument; but the proper colours are Azure, a fess Ermine, between six sea-mews' heads erased Argent.

† This Lord Darcie of Chich, was afterwards (viz., 19 Jac. 1) created Viscount Colchester, and 2 Charles I, Earl Rivers. He had by this Lady Thomas, who married the

On the entablature of the tomb appear these sentences :

Utinam amatores fuisssemus vitae permanentia, sicut sumus vitae fugientia.	Saeculum est quasi mare, qui amat Deum ambulat super mare.

- Against the east wall, nearly where the high altar formerly stood, is an altar-tomb, on which are carved various escutcheons, bearing the arms of Bourchier impaled with Kytson, and having this inscription on the verge :

Here lyeth the body of John Bourchier, Lord Fitzwarren, who married Frances, the third daughter of Syr Thomas Kytson, Knight, and by her had issue William, now Earl of Bath, and died, before his father, ye xxvij. day of February, Anno Dni. m.d.lvj, et anno aetatis suaee xxvij.

III. Attached to the united piers of the chapel and chancel arches is a monument of alabaster and coloured marble, consisting of an arch beneath a canopy supported by two Corinthian columns. It contains the effigy of Thomas, only son of Thomas Lord Darcy, of Chiche, afterward Earl Rivers, in a kneeling posture. He is habited in a doublet, with a flat ruff, trunk hose, and buskins, having his sword by his side, a helmet plumed, and a book on a desk, before him, his gauntlets and pistols suspended behind him, upon his arm a shield, bearing the arms of Darcy, quarterly. In the spandrels are two escutcheons, the one with the arms of Darcy impaling Kytson; the other Darcy quarterly with Kytson, impaling, 1st and 4th, Argent, gutté de sang, a cross ingrailed Gules, Fitz; 2nd, Sable, three battle-axes Argent, Denys; 3rd, Sable, three fleurs-de-lis, Argent, Curteys of Pyl. On the canopy, between two small obelisks, is a semicircular pediment, out of the centre of which rises a shaft, bearing an hour-glass and a shield, with the arms of Darcy, supported on the dexter side by a roebuck rampant Ermine, and on the sinister by a goat Argent: crest, a woman with golden tresses, clothed in a purple robe fastened by a brooch close round the throat, holding in her right hand a slip of cinquefoil. A female figure reclines on each side of the pediment. At the base of the monument is an inscription on two tablets of black marble, and under those, upon a medallion, a skeleton in a winding-sheet. The inscription is as follows :

MEMORIÆ SACRUM.

Of Thomas Darcy here the body ly,

* This is not an original inscription, and the date, 1477, is manifestly an error. Blomefield mentions one brass wanting in 1723, which belonged to a white stone on the south side of the chancel, at the east end; and that the earliest epitaph, at that time, was William Hervey's, which is confirmed by Sir John Cullum.

† This cenotaph is the work of Augustus John, Earl of Bristol. The original inscription, formerly in the nave of St. Mary's Church, St. Edmundsbury, at the west end, is given by Chifting in these words :

" Pray for the soul of Will'm Harvye, Esquire, obijt 1 Augusti 1528."

‡ This inscription does not occur in Blomefield, and Cullum writes over it, "not original." It is now covered by altar steps.

* Beneath the covering of this little stone
 Lie the poor shrunk yet dear remains of one
 With merit humble, and with virtue fair,
 With knowledge modest, and with wit sincere,
 Upright in all the social paths of life,
 The friend, the daughter, sister, and the wife!
 So just in disposition of her soul,
 Nature left reason nothing to control:
 Firm, pious, patient, affable of mind,
 Happy in life, and yet in death resigned.
 Just in the zenith of those golden days
 When the mind ripens ere the form decays,
 The hand of Fate untimely cut her thread,
 And left the world to weep that virtue fled,
 Its pride when living, and its grief when dead.

Relict of John, Lord Hervey, and daughter of Brigadier Lepell, one of the Maids of Honour to Caroline Princess of Wales,
Born 26th Sept. 1706, died 2^d Sept. 1768.

Awhile oh linger, sacred Shade !
 Till ev'ry solemn due be paid :
 The tears from Filial Love that flow,
 The sighs that Friendship long must know !
 But ah ! within this narrow space
 How each engaging virtue trace ?
 How shall each sweetness be defin'd
 That grace thy form, or bless thy mind ?
 Charms that in youth attractive shone,
 Glow'd ripe in their meridian sun,
 And spite of ruthless winter's rage,
 Melted into becoming age.
 Knowledge matured the fruits of sense,
 Nor shook the bloom of diffidence ;
 So silent and so modest too,
 As tasting but what others knew.
 Proud of humility, the sage
 In thy unvarying temper's page

Or saw, or might have deign'd to see
 The beauties of Propriety.
 Nor while sustain'd each decent part
 Could Prudence self pervert thy heart ;
 Through life thy ev'ry friend the same,
 Each foe thy study to reclaim.
 Pain could not chase thy friendly smile ;
 Not to afflict was all thy toil ;
 Thy woes alone unwont to speak,
 For Patience dwe't upon thy cheek.
 But in the solemn scene of death
 How paint the calm of fleeting breath ?
 When fortitude resembled ease,
 And the last pang seem'd most to please !
 In vain the Sculptor or the Muse
 So sad, so sweet a theme pursues :
 The chisel drops, th' unfinish'd strain
 Respects the Son it sooths in vain !

§ I have an old 'Almanacke' published in London in the year 1603, "by Edward Ponde, practitioner in the Mathematics." It belonged to Adam Winthrop, of Groton, in the county of Suffolk, the father of my Ancestor, the Governor of Massachusetts. There are interleaved pages in this Almanac with memoranda entered in Adam's own hand, and on one of these pages is the following manuscript entry. "Sir George Harvy, Lieuten^t of the Tower, died 1605, aet. 72. My ancestor's entry is clearly under the date of August 8, 1605. Adam Winthrop was closely connected by marriage with the Mildmays, his own brother having married William Mildmay, the grandfather of the William who married Sir George Hervey's daughter. Indeed there was a closer connection still, as Adam Winthrop's daughter Alice was the mother of William, the son-in-law of Sir George."—Letter from the Honble. Robert Winthrop, to Lord Arthur Hervey, dated Boston, U.S., 28 Dec., 1858.

WILL OF SIR JARRARD HARVYE.—1637.

Glory bee to thee, O Lord. In the name of God, Amen. I, Sir Jarrard Harvye, of ffenlape Barnes, in the Parische of Cardington, in the County of Bedford, Knight, doe make and ordaine this my last will and testament, being written with my owne hand this twentieth daye of Aprill, one thousand six hundred thirty seaven, in manner and forme following. ffirst, I give and bequeath my soule to God, whose it ever was and whose it ever shalbee. My Bodye I leave to the wormes till the day of that happie and ioyfull resurrection, when both my Soule and Body shalbee ioyned together to inherite eternall life through the merits of Christ Jesus my blessed Saviour and Redeemer. And concerninge my worldly estate wherewithal it hath pleased God to blesse me, I dispone of the same as hereafter is expressed, whereas I now stand lawfully possessed and interessed of all that the Rectorie and Parsonage of Cardington aforesaid, called ffenlape Barnes, within the said Countie of Bedford, with all and singuler the rights, members, and appurtenances for divers years yet to come and unexpired, of the demise of the Master fellowes and schollers of the College of the Holy and undevided Trinity within the Towne and university of Cambridge, of kinge Henry the Eights foundation. As by the Indenture of demise and lease thereof may appeare. And whereas by Indenture bearing date the fowerteenth daie of March, Anno Domini, one thousand six hundred thirtie one, And in the Seaventh yeare of the raigne of our now soveraigne Lorde Kinge Charles, made betweene mee the said Sir Jarrard Harvye, and Dame Dorothie my wife of the one part, and Andrew Bussy, of Chesthurt, in the Countie of Hartford, gent., and Cecill Bussy, gent., the onlie sonne of the said Andrew Bussy, of the other part, I have covenanted to transfre and settle the estate, and interest of the sayd Rectorie and premisses, to and in the sa'd Cecill Bussy, and Elizabeth, his then intended wife, and my daughter, and the longer liver of them, and to the executo^s and assignes of the longer of them after the decease of mee, the said Sir Jarrard Harvye, and Dame Dorothie my wife, in such manner as in the said Indenture is expressed. And whereas the said Cecill Bussy did after intermarry with the said Elizabeth, and is since deceased, in performance of the Covenantes and agreements in the said Indenture menc'oned, I doe devise, give and bequeath the said Rectorie and Parsonage of Cardington aforesaid, with all and singuler the rights, members, and appurtenances, and all glebe landes, tementes, tythes, hereditamentes, & appurtenances therunto belonginge to the said Dame Dorothy my deere wife, for and during her naturall life, and after her decease, then to the said Elizabeth Bussy, my daughter, her executo^s and assignes. To have and to hold to the said Elizabeth, her executors and assignes, for and during soe long tyme as the said Elizabeth, or anie issue of her body shalbee lyvinge; and for the terme of three yeaeres next after the decease of the said Elizabeth without issue. Provided alwaies, and my intention and meaninge is that the said Elizabeth Bussy, hir executors and assignes, shall pay the summe of ffeve hundred Poundes mentioned in the said Indenture last mentioned to be paid, and alsoe ffiftie Poundes a yeare of good and lawfull money of England to Dorothie Harvye, my daughter, att the vsuall feastes in the yeare, that is to say, the feaste of the Nativite of o^r Lord God, and the feaste of St John Baptist by equall porcons, or within twentie and one dayes next after each of these feastes, for and duringe the naturall life of the said Dorothie. And alsoe, shall execute and performe all other thinges in such manner and forme as in the said Indenture is limited, appointed and expressed; and in case the said Elizabeth Bussy dye without issue of her bodie, and all and every issue of her body shalbee dead and extinct, and that the said three yeaeres bee expired, then I will and devise and appointe that the said Rectorie, Parsonage, and leases, premisses, and all the interest and estate thereof shalbe, and goe to my said Daughter Dorothie, her executo^s and assignes, shee and they payinge to my daughter Anne Harvye the yearlye Rent or somme of Threescore pounds per Annu^y of good and lawfull money of England att twoe usuall feastes in the yeare, that is to saie, the feaste of the Nativite of our Lord God, and the feaste of St. John Baptist by equall porcons, or within Twenty and one Dayes next after the said feaste dayes for and during the naturall life of the said Anne; And my intention and meaninge is that when the said Dorothee shalbee possessed of the interest of the Lease of the said Rectory and Parsonage, accordinge to my will before menc'oned, then the payment of the said fyforty poundes a yearre to the said Dorothee shall cease and end, and then noe parson or p'sons shalbe charged with any further payment thereof. But I doe declare and my meaninge is that during the three yeaeres next after the decease of the said Elizabeth without issue before menc'oned as well, as before the said fyforty poundes a yearre shalbe payd to the said Dorothee according to the meaninge of the said Indenture. Item, I give and bequeath to my daughter Elizabeth Bussy, Twenty pounds to make her a dyamond Ringe, to weare in remembrance of mee: And my silver Bason and Ewer, and all my Bedsteedes, Tables and Cubbardes, and all my Brewing Vessel with the copp' ffrurnace. But my true intent and meaninge is that my most deare wife shall have the use of them all during her life. Item, I give and bequeath to my daughter Anna Harvye Twentye pounds to make her a diamond Ring, to weare in remembrance of mee, over and above, or besides the five hundred poundes I have given her out of the parsonage mentioned in a conveyance dated the eight and twentieth day of Aprill, In the Twelveth yeare of our now soveraigne Lord Charles, by the grace of God of England, Scotland, ffraunce and Ireland, king defender of the faith, &c., Anno D'ni 1636, under the handes and Seales of me the said Sir Jarrard Harvye and Dame Dorothee my wife. Item, I give and bequeath to my daughter Dorothee Harvye, three hundred poundes after the death of Dame Dorothee my wife, over and above the fyforty poundes I have given her out of the parsonage of Cardington duringe her life; And twenty pounds to make her a dyamond Ring to weare in the remembrance of mee. Item, I give and bequeath to my welbeloved nephew Jhon Harvye of Thurlyghe, Esq., my guylte sword to weare for my sake in the remembrance of mee. Item, I give and bequeath to my trusty servant Jhon Hinde, Tenn pounds, to bee paid him within one yeare after my decease. Item, I give and bequeath to Mr. Wattsonne, the Minister of the Parrische of Cardington, fyforty shillings. Item, I give and bequeath to the poore of the Parrische of Cardington eight pounds, to bee disposed of att the discretion of my Executrix. Item, I give and bequeath to Goodwife Susan Maynard, the wife of Thomas Maynard, of St Jhon's parish of Bedford, forty shillings. All other my utensills, plate, household stuffe, debts, creditts, bondes, goodes and chattles whatsoeuer unbequeathed, my debts and legacieis paid and discharged, I give and bequeath to the said Dame Dorothee my most dearely and welbeloved wife; whome I make and appointe my sole and onely Executrix of this my last will and testament. In witness whereof I have hereunto sett my hand and seale the daie and yeaere above written, Jar. Harvye. Subscribed, sealed, published and declared by the said S^r Jarrard Harvye to bee his last will and testament in the p'sence of us whose names are under written, Thomas Watson, minister, John Spencer, Jo. Cokayne, William fforster, Ol. Cokayne.

WILL OF LADY PENELOPE HERVEY.—1656.

In the Name of God Amen, The Thirtieth day of August, in the yeare of our Lord God, accordinge to the computac'on used in England, 1656. I, Lady Penelope Hervey, the Lady and wife of S^r William Hervey, of Hengrave, in the Countie of Suff., knight, being of perfect memory doe publish and declare this my last last will and Testament in manner and forme followinge. ffirst, I co'mende my soule into the handes of Almighty God, my body I co'mitt to the Earth to be privately yett decentlie buried in the parish church or chancell of Hengrave in the said Countie of Suff., as neere to my late daughter Dorothy as convenientlie may be. And as touchinge my Estate in this worlde I doe declare and publish as followeth. That I have heretofore by ffines and other deeds and conveniences settled, conveyed, and assured to and upon my sonne Edward Gage and his issue male All my Mannors, Landes, Tenements and hereditaments whatsoever, in the said county of Suff. (except the Mannors of Lackford and fforham St. Martin, which I longe since settled upon my eldest sonne S^r Thomas Gage, deceased.) And I doe by this my last will and testament Ratifie and confirme the same unto my sonne Edward, and to his Issue Male in manner and forme as I have by the sayd conveyance and assurances conveyed and assured the same, And for full satisfac'on of all that shal deserve to know my reason why I have soe settled and assured the same, and doe soe by this my last will and testament sette and assure the same, I doe declare that I have done the same of myne owne accord upon a full and settled purpose upon longe and serious deliberac'on not in respect of any offence given me by or displeasure taken against any of my other children, all of whom I doe acknowledge deedly to esteeme and love, but knowinge and consideringe that my Eldest sonne was plentifullly provided for by haveinge his late ffaither's Estate and inheritance, as alsoe a good p't of my estate and inheritance heretofore settled upon him of a competent and considerable valew, And haveinge made convenient provisions for maintenance to my two other sonnes John and Henry; An earnest desire to rayse another branch of my family hath moved me to settle and assure my Mannors, Landes, Tenements and hereditaments upon my said sonne Edward, whereatt I desire my other sonnes to be noeways displeased with ther sayd brother Edward, this being done without anie solicitac'on of his. Item, I give and bequeath the su'me of Twenty pounds to be distributed within one moneth next after my decease amongo the poore of Hengrave, fflempston, Lackford, Risby, Westley, Arvington, Hargrave, and the three ffornehams, att the discrec'on of mine Executors. Item, I give five pounds to the poore of Hengrave, and five poundes to the poore of the parish of St. Jamee in Bury St. Edmond's, the same to (sic) distributed on the day of my burial, or within as short a time after as convenientlie may be. It, I give unto my servant George Tokefeld the su'me of forty pounds. And to my servants Henry Engro, and Ann Baythorne,* the wife of Edward Baythorne, to each of them fforty pounds a pece. And I give and bequeathe to all my other servantes that shall remaine in my service att the time of decease and that shall then have served me by the space of three yeares, to every of them a respective yeares wages over and besides what shalbe then dew unto them respectively. Item, my will is that to the ende that such of my children, Grandchildren, and Servants, as shalbe with me in my house att the tyme of my decease, may have convenient tyme to provide for ther remove. I will that my Executors doe continew the house keepinge for the space of one moneth after my decease, in the same manner and order as I now doe, or shall doe att the tyme of my decease. And I desire that my servantes doe and p'forme ther respective service in their severall and respective places dureinge the sayd mon eth. Item, I give to such of my freinds as my Executors shall thinke fitt, Ringes of gold. And of this my last will and Testament, I doe constitute, make and ordayne, my sonne Edward Gage, my worthy Cosen, Mr. Ralfe Sulliard, and my worthy freind Mr. Coel, of Depden, Executors. And I doe give unto the sayd Mr. Coel the sum'e of fifty pounds. ter, now the wife of my son Henry Gage, Lands may be bought to make up the aforesaid Mannors of Halson and Penstorp in yearely valew 400*l.* by the yeare, and untill Lands can be bought that the considerac'on of the 1500*l.* and 1000*l.* may be disposed together, with the rents of Halson and Penstorp, for the maintenance of my son Henry Gage and his wife) all the aforesaid Lands and 1500*l.* in money, I confirme to my son Henry Gage, and my desire is that the above named Lands and moneys be secured to my son Henry Gage, as Mr. Coell shall advise, according to my intenc'ons expressed to Sr. Henry Wood. Item, I further declare that my sons porc'ons which there ffather and Grandmother leff them, and theere wives porc'ons went towards the purchasing of these Lands. Item, To my Grandson, Thomas Peter, I bequeath one hundred poundes, being the Therd son of my daughter Elizabeth Peter, which I desire should be placed with the Three hundred pounds his ffather leff him, towards his maintenance, to be paid within a yeare after my decease. Item, I give to my daughter Tresham, my daughter Merry, and my daughter Anne Peter, my son John Gage, and my son Henry Gage, fifty pounds a peece, to buy them something to keepe as a memory of me, these moneyes to be paid within a yeare after my decease. Item, I give to my daughter Anne Peter, Three hundred pounds, to be paid within a yeare after my decease. Item, I give to Sr. William Hervey, my husband, the some of one hundred pounds, to buy him two dozen of silver plates to keepe in memory of me, and am sorry my greate necessity will not suffer me to doe more: this if he survive me. Item, I give to John Gage, son to my son Henry Gage, one hundred pounds, these 200*l.* to be paid within the tyme aforesaid. Item, I desire my son Edward Gage, to confirme to Elizabeth Yenges, my servant, an Annuity of fifteene pounds a yeare dureinge life, graunted to her out of Buckells farme. Item, I give to my servant Yenges, Twenty pounds, which, with the 40*l.* I have given him in my will, will make up sixty pounds. Item, I give to grace May, if shee continue in the house with me, fifteene pounds, and to my servant Watkinis, if shee continue with me till my death, ten pounds, and to Lettice Sparrowhauke, ten pounds, and to Anne in the Kitching I intend the Almeshouse goody Summers is now in. Item, I will that my son Edward Gage, dispose of one hundred pounds immedately after my death, as I shall direct by word of mouth, or some noates under my hand, and my meaning is that those servants that hath any Legacies given them, are onely to have such wages as shall be due to them att my death. Item, my house at Bury, with the furniture in it, I give to my five children, that is to say, ffrances Tresham, Anne Peter, John Gage, Edward Gage, and Henry Gage, to be divided as a writting under my hand shall give direc'on; I am sorry it is noe better, but I leave itt them that they may not want a present habita'on; and I doe desire all persons whose names are used in any assurance concerning the said house, to stand seased to the use of my five children. Mr. John Coell, of Dobden, and my son Edward Gage, I nominate and appoynt Executors of this Codicell as a declarac'on of my last will and Testament, which I earnestly desire them careful y to p'forme. Item, I give to my son Edward Gage (my debtes and Legacies being all paid) all that shall remaine of mine, as money, Jewells, plate, stocke, utensels of household stufte, and all goods and ch'ells of what kinde and nature whatsoeuer. WILL OF JOHN HERVEY, ESQ., OF THURLEIGH.*—1715.

In the name of God Amen. I, John Hervey, of Thurleigh, in the County of Bedford, Esq., being in perfect health and mind, praised be God, Do make this my last will and Testament in manner following. Imp^t, I resign my soul to the God of life who gave it, hoping for salvation through the alone merits of the blessed Jesus, and my body to the earth, to be decently and privately buried in the chancell of the parish church of Thurleigh aforesaid, amongst my ancestors, at the disposition of my executrix hereafter named, and I do give and devise unto my trusty friends, William Bethers, of Howbury, in the parish of Renhold, Esqr., and Ambrose Reddall, of Eversholt, Gent., all that my manor or reputed manor of Whitwirk, als^t Thurleigh, in Bedfordshire, with the rights, members, and apurt^t thereof, and also all that my manor or mansion house, called Thurleigh Hall, in Thurleigh aforesaid, and all other my messuages, cottages, closes, lands, parks, woods, woodgrounds, Tenements, and hered^ts whatsoever, in Thurleigh aforesaid, and in Riseley and Bletsoe, in the said County of Bedford, with their and every of their apurt^t, except my cottage or tenement with its apurt^t near Thurleigh Church aforesaid, in the occupation of John Isard. To have and to hold the said manor, &c., except the said cottage near Thurleigh Church, in the occupation of John Isard, to them the said William Bethers and Ambrose Reddall, their heirs and assigns for ever, upon trust, and to and for intents and purposes hereinafter mentioned and described concerning the same—that is to say, that they sell the same as soon after my decease as they conveniently can, and in the first place pay all just debts which I shall owe at the time of my deceas, as well on Bonds and mortgages as o'rewise. Also, to my dear and loving wife Sarah Hervey, the sum of £1500, she joining with my trustees, and the survivor of them in such sale of my said lands, tenements, and hered^ts, and under further trust and confidence that they pay out of the rents and profits of my said estate, the sum of £80 per annum, to the said Sarah my wife, by half yearly payments, from the time of my decease, till she shall receive the said legacy of £1500, and to my brother in lawe, Doct^r William Asten, and his wife, my sister, £5 a piece, to buy them mourning, if living.

Item, my will is that my said trustees shall, out of moneys arising by such sale, pay unto my nephews, Thomas Astin, Esq., Major John Astin, and William Astin, Esq., Edward Astin, Clarke, and Eliz. Hervey, of Bletchworth, in the Co. of Surrey, sister of Steph. Hervey, Esq., dead, if living at the time of my decease, £10 apiece, to buy them mourning, and to my servants, William Thompson, and Mary his wife, £5 apiece.

Item, I appoint that my Trustees, and the survivor of them shall, out of the money arising from such sale aforesaid, erect a monument^t or plain marble Table, of the price of £30, against the wall in the chancell of the parish Church of Thurleigh aforesaid, in memory of my wife and ancestors, according to my late father's will. I desiring there may be on the marble Table thereof, a recital made of our pedigree, as true and concise as it will conveniently admit of, if I do not erect the same in my lifetime, and my will is that my said trustees shall, out of the moneys arising from such sale, detain the sum of £25 apiece, over and besides their charges and expenses, which they shall be put to in the executing of this Trust hereby reposed in them. Item, I give unto the s^d Sarah, my loving wife, all my household goods and plate, as well as goods and chattels, and personal estate whatsoever, and make her sole executrix of this my last will and testament, she only defraying out of it my funeral charges, and paying £5 to the poor people of Thurleigh aforesaid, according to her discretion. The residue to be divided into five equal parts, and to pay one fifth part to the two sons of my said nephew, Thomas Astin, the eldest of them, being my godson, to have two thirds therof, and the youngest one third only, but if one die before the division, the survivor to have the whole, to pay one fifth to my nephews, Robert Carryer, Clerke, and Mr. John Carryer, of Potton, Draper; two thirds thereof to said Robert, and one thirde thereof to said John, but if either of them die before the division, then the survivor to have the whole; one fifth to my niece, Katharine Nevile, if living, and then to be divided amongst her children; one fifth to my niece Sarah, wife of Cassel Berow, clerke, and Margaret Carryer; one fifth to my cousin and godson, John, son of Stephen Hervey, late of Bletchworth, Esq., and my goddaughter, Anne Perklington, of Chelmsford, &c. Item, I give to my said loving wife, all that my said cottage or temement, near Thurleigh Church, with its appurts, in the occupation of the said John Issard, with the (frightwell?) of pasture thereto belonging, and the one acre by estimation of sward or lay ground; also the said cottage belonging, for the term of her natural life; and after I give the rents, issues, and profits of the same cottage (right) of pasture, and sward, or lay ground, with the appurt's, to the poorest familys for the time being, in Thurleigh, that shall not receive collection, to be devideed amongst them upon every Christmas day forever, by the Vicar of the said parish for the time being, and the owner or proprietor of my manor house of Whitwirk, al's Thurleigh, wherein I now dwell.

Item, I give and bequeath my messuage, in the parish of St. Mary, in the town of Bedford, being a corner house in Cawdell Street, near the Church, to my wife, and after her death to William Bethers, and Ambrose Reddall, in Trust, to settle the same towards the yearly maintenance of some poor scholar of Christ's College, Cambridge, to be born at Thurleigh, and if there should not be one, then some other poor schollar to be born in Bedfordshire.

Dated 5th May, 1713. Signed (J. Hervey), and witnessed by John Izard, Thos. Seddon, Hy. Coley, and the mark of John Williamson.

Hervey Pedigree.

The genealogy of the ancient and noble family of Hervey, Deduced from ye Beginning of ye Reign of King Edward III. to this present time, Anno 1682. From which is descended Sir. Thomas Hervey, of Ickworth, in ye County of Suffolk, Engt.

The Ickworth, & Mr. John Hervey's, of Thirley his pedigree is beginn much higher then Milord Hervey's, & his one of whch this Genealogy is taken, say that yr first Herveye came into England with William Y' Conqueror. And that Harvey d'Yon or de Montmari, married to yr Daughter of William Girth, of Normandie, tempore Henr. II, had for his Armes One single trefoil in a field Argent. And that afterwards John Harvey maried to Dionysia, Daughter of Jeffry le Gray, of Bedfordshire, had for his bearings 3 trefoils in a field Argent. And that at last John Hervey, of Thirley, maried to Joan, Daughter & Heir of John Hammond, of Thirley, put yr three trefoils into his Grandmother Mary Follot's Bend Argent, in a Field Gules, as they now remain.
N.B. The Thirley pedigree only makes mention of yr Match with Hammond.

卷之三

From the original Roll on Vellum, compiled A.D. 1579, by Robert Glover, Somerset Herald, for Sir John Heigham, of Barrow, and now in the possession of John Henry Heigham, Esq.

- On the death in 1652 of Henry, fifth Lord Vaux (the grandson of the above-named William Lord Vaux) unmarried, the son of Vaux of Harroden fell into abeyance between his surviving sister Joyce, and the heirs of his two deceased sisters, Mary and Catherine; which state it continued until 1838, when Her Majesty was pleased to determine the abeyance in favour of the present George Charles ^{7th} Baron Vaux of Harroden, who claimed through Mary, the eldest sister of William Lord Vaux.

HEIGHAM INSCRIPTIONS.

LAVENHAM CHURCH.

(Royce's Breviary of Suffolk, Harl. MSS.)

The next matter that I doe find then in that Church worthy of observation is in the Chappell on the North Side of the chancell, called Braunces Chappell. I find there upon a marble gravestone under a statute of brasse, armed from head to feet, is this epitaph.

Orate pro anima Clementis Heigham armigeri qui obiit 26° die Septembris Anno dñi Mill'mocccc cujus anima propitietur Deus. Amen.

Above, one single escutcheon of Heigham. Sable a fess componee Or and Azure, between 3 horses' heads erased Argent.

GAYSELEY CHURCH.

In the nave under the south window next the chancel, is a very ancient tomb of black marble, with a flat arched canopy : at the back were formerly brasses with shields of arms and labels, but all now destroyed ; there were however, some years since, two shields remaining. One—quarterly, 1st and 4th Blenerhasset, Gules, a chevron Ermine, between three dolphins naiant embowed Argent, quarterly with Orton, Azure, a lion rampant gardant Argent, crowned Or; 2nd and 3rd Loudham, Argent, three escutcheons Sable. The other—Blenerhasset, with quarterings as in former shield, impaling, Heigham, quarterly with Francys. This tomb appears to have been erected to Margaret, daughter of Thomas Heigham, of Heigham, by Isabell, daughter and heir of Sir Hugh Francys, who married John Blenerhasset, of Frense, in Norfolk: he died A° 1510, and was buried at Frense, as appears by his brass in that church.

On the south wall of the church is a small monument with two figures—male and female—both kneeling, the man in armour, the woman behind him, with this inscription :—

Here lyeth buried Edmond Heigham, gentleman, with Alice his wife, by whom he had issue 3 Sonnes and 2 Daughters. She died the 22nd daye of Aprill, 1599, and he died the 4th daye of October, 1604 : of the said issue, 2 Sonnes, named Edmond and Frauncis, died before their said father, and only one Sonne, named Clement, and the two daughters, named Susan and Ann, overlived him.

On a shield above the monument the Arms of Heigham, with a mullet for difference.

On a brass in the pavement of the chancel, the following inscription :—

Here lieth Mary, the wife of William Heigham, Gentleman, by whom He had issyue 6 sonnes and 4 daughters,
 she died the 18 day of Februarie,
 Anno Domini 1618.

FRENSE CHURCH, NORFOLK.

Cotman (Norfolk and Suffolk Brasses) gives an etching from the brass in this church of John Bleverhasset (or Bleverhasset), who married Margaret Heigham (her monument at Gaysley is noticed above.) In this brass the figure is in complete armour, except the head, which is bare, having gauntlets on the hands, which are joined in the attitude of prayer; the sword, which is suspended from a belt, is in front, and hangs between the legs. Beneath the figure is this inscription:—

Hic jacet Gen'abilis Vir Joh's Blevhasset Armig. q. obiit Vicesimo hui die m's mōr' br. A. J. m° b° x cui' xi' pycief' J's.

There were four shields in brass on the stone, two of them with the arms of Bleverhasset, quarterly, 1st and 4th, Bleverhasset; 2nd, Lowdham; 3rd, Orton; one of the shields is lost, and on the remaining one is Orton, impaling Heigham. This is incorrect, there was no marriage of Orton and Heigham.

In the same church (Frense) is a very fine brass to Sir Thomas Bleverhasset, the eldest son of the above John Bleverhasset, by Margaret Heigham; the figure, which is in complete armour, is surrounded with four shields in brass, on which the arms and quarterings are correctly shown.

First shield—Bleverhasset, quarterly, 1st and 4th, Bleverhasset; 2nd and 3rd, Orton; impaling Lowdham; quarterly, 1st and 4th, Lowdham; 2nd and 3rd, Kelvedon, Gules, a pall reversed Ermine.

Second shield—Bleverhasset, quarterly, 1st and 4th, Bleverhasset; 2nd and 3rd, Lowdham, impaling Heigham. The annexed woodcut is from this shield.

The third and fourth shields show the marriages of Sir Thomas Bleverhasset, viz—
Third shield—Bleverhasset, quarterly, 1st, Bleverhasset; 2nd, Lowdham; 3rd, Orton; 4th, Kelvedon, impaling Braham, Sable, a cross patonce Or.
Fourth shield—Bleverhasset, quarterly (as in third shield) impaling Sutton, Or, two lions rampant in pale Azure.

ST. EDMUND'S BURY—ST. MARY'S CHURCH.

Elizabeth, the first wife of Thomas Heigham (a younger son of Clement Heigham, of Lavenham) was buried in this church. Chitting Chester Herald (MS. Collections for Suffolk) gives the following description of the stone placed there to her memory:—

In South Ile of y^e Chauncel, on another fair stone—

Pray for the soule of Elizabeth Heigham, late wif of Thomas Heigham, of Bury, gentilman, one of the daughters of Will'm Calthorpe, Knight, Obiit 9 Martii, 1642.

Arms—Heigham, an annulet for difference, impaling Calthorpe, chequy Or and Azure, a fess Ermine.

Note.—Gage, in his notice of Chevington Church (History of Suffolk), states that a plate and four escutcheons bearing the arms of Heigham, with an annulet for difference, had been torn away from a stone before the altar. This was probably placed over the grave of the above-mentioned Thomas Heigham—the annulet for difference in the arms is the ground of this conjecture—we know of no example of the arms being borne with this difference, except by this Thomas Heigham. Chitting gives the annulet in the above blazon of his arms as they appeared on the gravestone of his first wife, Elizabeth Calthorpe, his second wife was a Poley. The annulet for difference appears also on two shields of arms, carved on one of the corner posts of an old timber house (now pulled down) in St. Edmundsbury, which, doubtless, belonged to this Thomas Heigham. On one face of this post is a shield, with the arms of Heigham, singly; on the other, Heigham, impaling Calthorpe for the first wife, and a lion rampant for Poley, the second wife; the arms of both wives are on the sinister side, parted per fess (these posts are now in the possession of C. W. Heigham, Esq., of Wetherden); one (the last) of the brasses from the gravestone at Chevington, is in the possession of J. H. Heigham, Esq., of Hunston, the gift many years since of a worthy antiquary, who, by his own confession had stolen it from the stone at Chevington. The annexed woodcut is from that brass.

DENHAM CHURCH.

In a small Chapel, erected on the north side of the Chancel, is a large altar or table monument to Sir Edward Lewkenor, Knight, and Dame Susan his wife, second daughter and co-heiress of Thomas Heigham, of Heigham, Esq., by Martha, daughter of Sir Thomas Jermyn, of Rushbroke, Knight. The monument stands on the floor against the north wall, and consists of a large table of stone, on which are ten figures, all kneeling, facing to the east, and with their hands joined before them in prayer—in front, Sir Edward Lewkenor and his wife, immediately behind them two sons, and behind the sons six daughters, two and two—the father is in armour, but bare-headed, the hair short, and with large ruff; the sons are also in armour; all the figures are black, and kneeling on green and gold cushions. Over these figures is a heavy canopy of stone, supported by six stone pillars, painted to resemble porphyry. The tablet on the front or south side of the monument is divided into two compartments, and bears the following inscriptions:—

In hoc sacello nuper κοιμητηριον ergo exstructo conditi jacent in suis distinctis et separatis tumulis clarissimus ille vir Edwardus Lewkenor Eques Auratus et Selecta domina Susanna ipsius uxor—ambo et parentum et familiarum splendore illustres, ambo pietate et omnium virtutum choro insignes et peronati—quorum illa immatura morte extincta est quum quiaquaginta trium annorum curriculum vix confecisset die viz Octobris 2º Anno Salutis 1605—ille vero postridie occubuit quam sexaginta tres annos aetate complevisset. Antequam natura cessit vir egregius multis praeclaris muneribus per functus est in aula regia in parlamento in republica idque fideliter et cum summa laude atque bonorum omnium approbatione inter ceteras autem justi proconii causas hec maxime eduxit et sempiterna memoria digna quod ejus opera in peregrinam hanc villam obscuramque evangelii predicationis est introducta cuius luce et beneficio ad extremum vite terminum fruebatur.

Femina vero praeclentissima a sincera evangelice veritatis professione nanquam defuit sed eam multis christianis virtutibus modestia castitate Στρογγυλα in pauperes misericordia in omnes munificientia commendavit atque in tam felici statu tandem expiravit non dubium igitur est quin in perenni gloria ambo triumphent ultimam resurrectionem ardenterbus votis expectantes quum plena ipsorum redemptio perficietur.

Reliquerunt superstites filios binos filias vero sex proclarum sane sobolem parentum vestigia insistantem atque omnes virtutes talium parentum experimentem cuius luculentum specimen quod viz. filius natu maximus proclarum hoc non exigua suis sumptibus excidendum et artificiosa manu hoc fano locandum curavit in perpetua parentum

Reliquerunt etiam multos amicos et familiares tristes

(The last lines of the inscription are nearly obliterated by damp.)

On the south side raised above the canopy, is a large shield of arms, namely, Lewkenor, of 12 coats.

1. Lewkenor, Azure, 3 chevronels Argent, a mullet for difference.
2. Bardolphe, Azure, 3 cinquefoils Or.
3. Tregose, Azure, 2 bars gemelles Or, in chief a lion passant of the second.

10. Noel, 3 pales Gules in a field Or.
11. Halsham, Argent, a chevron Gules between 3 torteaux.
12. Lewkenor, as above.

On the frieze, on the south side of the canopy, are 4 shields.

1. Blank, impaling Lewkenor.
2. Quarles, Or, a fess dauncettée Ermine between 3 birds Vert, impaling Lewkenor.
3. Rhodes, Argent, a lion passant gardant, in bend Gules, between 2 cotises Ermine, impaling Lewkenor.
4. Gournay, alias Gurney, Argent, a cross engrailed Gules, impaling Lewkenor.

At the west end of the canopy, on the frieze, 2 shields.

1. Blank, impaling Lewkenor.
2. Steward, Argent, a lion rampant Gules, debruised by a bend raguled Or, impaling Lewkenor.

Above the frieze, a large shield, with Heigham, of 8 coats (as before in the pedigree by Glover).

1. Heigham;
2. Francoys;
3. Terringham;
4. Pabenham;
5. Luoy;
6. Chamberlain;
7. Tolthorpe;
8. Heigham.

At the east end of the canopy, on the frieze, 2 shields.

1. Lewkenor, impaling Blank.
2. Lewkenor, of 12 coats (the same quarterings as before, except that the 12th coat is Heigham) impaling Blank.

Above the frieze, a large shield—Lewkenor, of 12 coats, impaling Heigham of 8 coats.

Funeral Certificate of Sir Edward Lewkenor, of Denham, 1606.

The Right Wor^{ll} S^r Edward Lewknor, of Denham, in the Countye of Suffolk, Knight, departed this Mortall Lyfe at his House called Denham Hall, in the Towne & Countie aforesaid, the 19 of September, 1606, whose Funeralls were solemnised at the parish Churche of Denham, the ninth of Januarie following. NOTE.—The correct blazon of the Radmylde arms is Argent, 3 bars Sable, on a canton Sable a leopard's face Or; but there is no doubt the above coat Barry of six Ermynes and Gules, as it appears on the shield on the Denham monument, was intended for the arms of Radmylde. The arms of Sir Edward Lewkenor were recorded at his funeral, and this coat given for Radmylde: the subject, moreover, was thoroughly investigated in the Camoys Peerage Case, before the House of Lords, when it was shown that this coat, although incorrect, was borne by the Lewkenors, as for Radmylde. Ralph Radmylde married Margaret, sister and heir of Hugh de Camoys Baron Camoys, and by her had two daughters, co-heiresses. Margaret Radmylde, the eldest daughter, married John Goring, of Sussex; and Isabella Radmylde, the other daughter, married Nicholas Lewkenor, of Sussex, ancestor of the above mentioned Sir Edward Lewkenor. The contest in the Camoys Peerage Case, was between Thomas Stonor, Esq., who claimed in right of the elder daughter, Margaret Goring, and H. Styleman L'Estrange, Esq., who claimed (through the above mentioned Sir Edw. Lewkenor) in right of the younger daughter, Isabella Lewkenor; his ancestor Sir Nicholas L'Estrange, having married Ann, grand-daughter (and eventually heiress) of the said Sir Edw. Lewkenor. Both parties proved their descent, and Her Majesty, in 1839, determined the abeyance in favour of Thomas Stonor, now Baron Camoys, who claimed through the elder co-heiress of Radmylde. The barony had been in abeyance since 1426—See Camoys Peerage Case.

STOKESBY CHURCH, NORFOLK.

Under the east window of the chancel, a flat stone, with a female figure inlaid in brass; the hands in the attitude of prayer, with ruff, large cap, and embroidered robes. Beneath this figure, two other brasses, one with the effigies of five sons, the other of six daughters. On a brass beneath the figures, the following inscription:—

Here lyeth the Body of Mrs. Ann Clere, the wife of Thomas Clere, of Stokesby, in y^e County of Norff., Esq., Daughter and Heire of Thomas Heigham, of Denham, in the County of Suffolk, Esq., who dyed the XXII of March, Anno Dmi 1614.

ABINGTON MAGNA, CAMBRIDGESHIRE.

Cole's MSS. Brit. Mus.

Near the oaken screen in the middle aisle of this church is a black marble, with this inscription, on a brass plate :—

Hic Jacet corpus Roberti Heighā Gen'si
 Qui obit secundo die Aprilis Ano Domini
 Milesimo sexcentesimo nono Qui quidē
 Robertus habuit exitū per Johannā Uxore ejus tres filios et sex filias viz. Amy,
 Mariā, Thomā, Jacobū, Alicia, Catherinā,
 Margareta, Johannā, et Richardum.

WYCKHAM BROOK CHURCH.

Deeply inserted in the south wall, and protected by a wooden screen, is a monument, inlaid with several brass plates—the centre brass represents a man in a gown, with ruff and short hair, standing between his two wives, the hands are joined in front of the body; the female figures in caps and ruffs, with petticoats curiously figured. The brass on the dexter side has three figures (also standing), two sons and one daughter. The brass on the sinister side has six figures (standing), three sons and three daughters.

Beneath the figures the following inscription in Roman capitals :—

Anno Aetatis sue 66.
 Neare to this place lyeth buried the Body of Thomas Burrough, Gent., first maryed to Elizabeth Burwell, secondly maryed to Brigitte Higham, who died the XIX of June, 1597, whos Soule Resteth with God.

Above the figures, three shields of arms in brass, enamelled.

The centre shield—Burrough, Argent, 2 chevrons between 3 chaplets Azure (qy. Vert) seeded Or.

Above the shield, the Helmet and crest. Crest—an eagle (or griffin's) head couped Argent, beaked Or, charged on the neck with 2 chevronels Azure. Motto—Constantiam Diligo.

The dexter shield—Burrough, impaling Blank.

The sinister shield—Burrough, impaling Heigham.

In the chancel against the south wall, within the communion rails, is a large altar tomb, on which is a figure in marble, the size of life, of a man in armour, with his sword by his side, bareheaded, with full beard; the figure is in a recumbent position, resting on the left arm.

Above the figure, on a black marble tablet, is the following inscription :—

The worthy and well deserving Souldier, Thomas Higham, Esquire, A Gentleman of auncient Descent & noble Allyance, suited to both with an Heroycall spirit, who, in his younger yeares entred into the profession of Armes, at the Syege of Nimigen, when Queen Elizabeth, of glorious memory, received the Hollanders into her protection, and when her most sacred M'tie sent over the Earl of Essex with Forces, to establish King Henry the 4th of France on his throne. This Gentleman, in the action before the Cyttie of Roan, was shott with a bullett and msymmed, and her Ma'tie, upon just infur-macon of his merritts, remunerated him with a good Pension, and appointed him to take charge of a Company in Ireland, when Sir William Russell went over Lord Deputye. In those warres he is worthy to be remembred for his good Service; at the taking in of Belney—Breket, Etnay, and Skillen, and at the Winning of Slego Castell, in Connaugh, and at the Curlew did brave Service, when some English Commanders were slayne in the attempt against Clein Castell with much difficulty and losse of most of his Company, he escaped the Enemyes Surprise, and at the overthrow given the Rebellious Irish, assisted by Spanish Forces at Blackwater, he, fighting single with Sir Edward Stanley, that was a Commander of some of those trayterous Troopes (and took part against his Soveraigne) gave him the Guerdon of his Disloyalty, and deprived him both of Life and Honour.

On a tablet below the figure :—

That Kingdome being brought into odedience, this noble Souldier returned for England, where he happily and worthily lived till he came to the 63 yeare of his age, and upon the 15 day of August, 1630, like a good and faithful Servant entered into his Master's and Redeemer's Joy.

Sir Robert Knollys, of Stanford, in the County of Berkshire, Knight, and Nephew to the Deceased, hath caused this Monument to be erected as a memorall due unto the Fame of this well-deserving Gentleman.

Above the monument, supported by a bracket, is his Helmet, surmounted with his Crest—On a wreath a horse's head erased Argent. The shield, which some years since was in like manner suspended above the monument, has been removed.

WESTMINSTER ABBEY.

On a small tablet on the north wall of the north Isle, is the following inscription :—

To the Glorie of the Lord of Hosts.

Here Resteth Sir Richard Bingham, Knight, of the avnctn familie of the Binghamhs, of Bingham Melcombe, in the countie of Dorset, Who from his yovthe trayned up in Militarie affaers, served in the time of Qu. Marie, at St. Quintin's, in the Western Isles of Scotland, and at Conqy^t in Britaine. In the time of Qu. Eliza.; at Leeth, in Scotland, in the Isle of Candy under the Venetians; at Cabe Chiro, and at the famous Battale of Lepanta, against the Turks; In the Civil Wars of France; In the Netherlands, and at Smerwick, where the Romanes and Irishe were Vanquished. After hee was made Governor of Conagh where he overthrew the Irish Scotts, expelled the traitor Orowrke, suppressed divers rebellions, and that with small charges to her Ma^{tie}, maintaining that province in flourishing estate by the space of 13 years. Finellie, for his good service was made Marshall of Ireland. and Generall of Leinster, where at Dublin, in an assured faith in Christe, Hee ended this transitory life, the 19 of Januarie, Anno Dni 1598, Æstat. 70.

This is done by Sir John Bingley, Knight, sometime his servant.

ARMS—Quarterly, 1st and 4th Bingham, Gules (Vert qy.) a bend cotised Or, between 6 crosses formée of the second. 2nd and 3rd Ermine, a lion rampant Gules, crowned Or.

CREST—an eagle rising Or.

[The above mentioned Sir Richard Bingham, married (see Pedigree infra) Sarah, sister of Thomas Heigham, of Gyffords, the inscription on whose monument in the church of Wyckhambrook we have given above.]

STANFORD CHURCH, BERKSHIRE.

(Ashmole's Antiquities.)

On a monument, to the memory of John Heigham, second son of John Heigham, of Gyffordes, by Martha, daughter of William Yelverton, erected against the south wall of the chancel, is this inscription :—

John Heigham, Esq., late Marshall of the Hall to King James and King Charles, son of John Heigham, of Suffolke, departed this lyfe the twentyth Day of March, 1632.

He was a man respective to his superiors, courteous, kinde, and loving to his inferiours, & affable to all men, and a good benefactor to the Poore of the parish of Stanford, where he lived, and where he is now interred.

Not that he needed Monument of Stone
For his well gotten Fame to rest upon,
But this was reared to testify that he Lives in their lives that yet surviving be.
For unto Virtue, who first raised his Name,
He left the preservation of the same ;
And to Posterity remain it shall,
When Brass and Marble Monuments shall fail.

BARROW CHURCH.

On the pavement against the south wall of the chancel, stands the tomb of Sir Clement Heigham. It consists of a low canopy of Petworth marble, with a flat arched roof, enriched with quatrefoils and Tudor flowers. The effigies of the knight, his two wives, and their children, are represented upon brasses at the back of the tomb. He is represented in armour, except the head, which is bare, kneeling before a desk, on which is an open book; his helmet rests against the desk, and his gauntlets hang in front of it; the other figures are all kneeling. Above his head hangs his shield, bearing the arms of Heigham, quarterly, 1st and 4th, Heigham; 2nd and 3rd, Francye. Crest—a horse's head erased Argent.

To the right of this shield is another, with his arms quarterly as before, impaled with those of Anne, his second wife—viz.—quarterly, 1st, Waldegrave, quarterly—

1. Waldegrave, per fess Argent and Gules.
2. Montcheney, Barryly of 12, Argent and Azure.
3. Creake, Or, a fess vaire Sable and Gules.
4. Vauncy, Gules, an eagle displayed Ermine.
5. Moyne, Argent, two bars in chief, 3 mullets Sable.
6. Waldegrave.

2nd and 3rd, Fray, Ermine, a fess Sable, between three fig-frays Or; 4th, Waldegrave, quarterly as 1st.

To the left, a shield with the arms of Waldegrave, and quarterings as before, quarterly, with Fray.

Beneath the effigies the following inscription, in old English characters :—

I.

Berefte of worldly lyfe, in hope to ryse to endlesse light,
By Christ's deserts, here rests the corse of Clement Heigham, Knight,
Whom Suffolk soyle did brede, bring up, and chiefly foster, ay,
In Barrowe, where his dwelling was until his dying day,
Which was the nynth of March, since God a mortal man became,
The thousandth and five hundredth yeare, with seventy to the same.
What tyme our soverane Lady deere, Elizabeth, our Queene,
Of her most milde and gracieus reigne, did recken yeares thirteen.
He was a man whom God had given great pregnancie of wit,
And therewith all such utterance as for the same was fytle ;
The feare of God he alwaies had just fixt in holy hearte,
And from his prynce in loyalty no iote wold he departe ;
A faithful frind to all goode men, in worde and eke in deede,
And lyke a parent to the pore wth almose at their nede ;
His study and profession were the laws of this our lande,
The ground whereof he deemed was ryght well to understand,
And for his proof of learned skyll, by study got theryn ;
In house of Courte called Lyncoln's Inn, twice reader he hadde been ;

By thys his knowledge in those lawes he did still peace preserve,
Whern quarrells caus'd his neyghbors ofte from unitye to swerve.
His country may full well bewaile the losse of such a guyde,
Who ready was as ryghtfull judge their stryfe for to decyde.

II.

He duely did correct all vice and favoured virtue mylde,
And in his judgment would not be with brybery defyled,
In punishment with the pore, which did their cryme lament,
He would with pyty mercifull from rigour soon relent,
But unto them which wilfully contynued in offence,
A terror unto them he was in justice true defence,
Through which good gift so manifest such favor he obtained
With Philippe and with Marye late our soveraynes when they reigned,
That he by sage and good advyce was chosen ffor to bee
The speaker of the Parliamente, and furthered to degree
To be of Privy Counsayle with his Prynce, and afterward
To Lord Chief Baron of the Queene's escheeker was prefred,
The wh^{ch} advancement ended by Queene Maries death, and he
Returning into private state, contynued in degree
Of worshippe in his country, still a justicer of peace ;
And from his virtues here rehirst till death he did not cease,
Wh^{ch} then from care dischardging him and of ech worldye thyng,
Was unto him a direct meane his lastinge life to bringe,
Then (as he uide alwaies much time in prayer for to spende)
Then soe with prayer at the last his earthly life did end.
God grant that this (a true record) of him here left behind,
May cause eeh man remember one and bear his life in mind.

Adjoining Sir Clement's tomb is a heavy mural monument to his son, Sir John Heigham, the work of Nicholas Stone. His shield in the centre bears, quarterly—1st, Heigham; 2nd, Francys; 3rd, Terringham; 4th, Pabenham; 5th, Lucy; 6th, Chamberlayne; 7th, Tolthorpe; 8th, Heigham (as before in pedigree by Glover.)

On another shield—the arms of Wright, Sable, a chevron between 3 fleur-de-lis Or, upon a chief of the last, three spear heads Azure.

On a third shield—the arms of Poley, Or, a lion rampant Sable.

The epitaph, of which parts are legible, has been purposely defaced, and in its place an inscription has been written, in memory of Sir John Heigham's son, Sir Clement. The inscription thus substituted is as follows :—

Hic requiescit corp' Clementis
Heigham militis qui hanc vitam decessit 25 die Maij, A'no D'ni, 1634.

Another monument, a marble tablet, has been raised on the north wall of the chancel, to the memory of Sir John Heigham, by his great grandson, on which is the following inscription :—

D. O. M.
In this place lyeth buried the body of
Sir John Heigham, Knight,
who departed this life in the xviii^e yeare of his age,
the II day of May, y^e yeare of our Lord, 1626.
Though monuments and all must dy,
Yet grace bespeaks eternity,
Not Balaam, but a saint might pray,
So let me live, and dy, Lord, say—
Who lived and dy'd so long and well,
In great return of joy doth dwelle.

Hoc monumentū propriis sumptib :
Clemens Heigham, armig. proavo P. P.

On a tablet against the east wall of the chancel :—

Here lyeth the Body of Madam Susan Heigham, Daughter of Luke Skippon, Doctor of Divinity,
and Wife to Clement Heigham, Esq.,
Minister of this Parish.

She departed this life in Great Transports of Joy, August the 14th, 1695.

Reader, take my advice, serve the Lord in all Humility of mind as she Did ; doe all things from An ardent love of God as she Did ; breath after
God and Holinesse as she Did ; be as pure in heart
And life as she Was ; be as resigned to the Will of God as she was ; be as tender and charitable ;
And as zealous to doe good to the Soules
And bodyes of all thy Fellow Christians as she Was ; and dye in the Unitye of the Church as she Did ; and then thy Soule may be filled with joy
In the Holy Ghost, vpon thy dying bed, as hers was.

Reader, pray for me that I may so live and dye as she dyed.
Clement Heigham.

Arms—Heigham, impaling Skippon, Gules, five annulets Or.

THORNAGE CHURCH, NORFOLK.

In the chancel against the north wall was formerly (Weever's Funeral Monuments, and Blomefield's Norfolk) a monument (but which is now removed, and affixed to the wall under the west window in the tower) to Anne, daughter of George Waldegrave, Esq., of Smallbridge, in Suffolk, who married first, Henry Buers, Esq., of Acton, in Suffolk ; and secondly, Sir Clement Heigham.

The monument, or what now remains of it (for according to Blomefield the effigies of three sons and five daughters were represented in it) consists of a female figure (in brass) kneeling, the hands joined in prayer, before her is a desk, upon which is an open book.

Beneath the figure, the following inscription :—

HIC EST LIEITH . ANNE . LADY . AND WIFE . TO . SIR . CLEMENT . HEIGHAM

DEBENHAM CHURCH.

On the south side of the chancel is an altar tomb with the recumbent figures of Sir Charles Framlingham, Knight, and Dame Dorothy his wife, the daughter of Sir Clement Heigham, of Barrow. He is clad in armour, girt with a sword, having gauntlets on his hands, which are joined in the attitude of prayer, his head rests on his helmet. She is in the habit and large ruff of the times, her head is supported by a cushion. Against the wall, above the monument, is a tablet with the following inscription:—

“Here lyeth the bodie of Sir Charles Framlingham, Knight, who dyed the 28 daye
“of July, An^o 1595. The sayd Syr Charles, had two wyfes, the first named “Doretye, daughter of Sir Clement Heigham, Knight, and by her he had issue—Cle“ment, that dyed without issue; and Anne, that was married to Sir Bassingborne “Gawdy, Knight; and for his second wyfe he had Elizabeth, daughter of Sir Thomas “Barnardiston, Knight, which second wyfe overlived the sayd Syr Charles, and caused
“this monument to be erected An^o 1598.”

Above the tablet is an escutcheon with the arms of Framlingham, and his quarterings, viz.—

1. Framlingham, Argent, a fesse Gules, between three cornish choughs Sable, beaks and legs Gules.
2. Lee, of Sussex, Sable, a chevron Ermine, between three crescents Argent.

In witness that all this is trewe, we whose names do follow, have hereunto sett owre handes the daye and year of the buryall aforesayd.

J. Heigham,

Thomas Barnardiston,
Elizabeth Framlingham.

NOTE.—It appears from the above inscription and funeral certificate, that Sir Charles Framlingham and Dorothy Heigham had only one son, who died under age, and without issue, and one daughter, who married Sir Basingbourne Gawdy. On the death of Sir Charles the family of Framlingham became extinct in the male line, and their large estates in and around Debenham devolved on the Gawdys, in whose possession they remained for several generations. The family of Gawdy is now also extinct, at all events in the male line; the estates at Debenham have passed into other hands, and there does not appear to be now any descendant of the above marriage. We have taken some pains to ascertain whether the quarterings of what may be called the remarkable shield of arms of Framlingham as they still appear on the monument in Debenham church are correct, and in what way the family of Framlingham became entitled to bear them. The following short sketch of descent will explain this as to some of the most important coats thus quartered. Edward the First of England had by his second wife, Margaret, sister of Philip the Fair, of France, two sons, Thomas Plantagenet surnamed de Brotherton, created Earl of Norfolk, and Edmund Plantagenet surnamed de Wodstocke, who was summoned to parliament as Baron de Wodstocke, in 1320, afterwards created Earl of Kent, and summoned by that title in 1322; this Edmund married Margaret, sister and heir of Thomas Wake, third Baron Wake; on his death she succeeded to that Barony, and styled herself the "Lady of Wake." Joan Plantagenet, called the "Fair Maid of Kent," the only daughter of this marriage, succeeded (after the death without issue of her brothers, Edward and John, on whom the Baronies of Wake and Woodstock, and the Earldom of Kent successively devolved) to these honours; she married first, S^r Thomas de Holland, K.G., summoned to parliament as Baron Holland, in 1353; and secondly, Edward, the Black Prince, by whom she was the mother of Richard the Second. By her first husband she had issue Thomas Holland, who succeeded his mother in the Earldom of Kent and these ancient Baronies. These honours, after his death, and the death without issue of his sons Thomas and Edward Holland, upon whom they successively devolved, fell into abeyance between his daughters and co-heiresses; all of them however were of course entitled to bear the coats of arms of the different families which their father represented; one of these daughters and co-heiresses married Thomas de Montacute, Earl of Salisbury, in whom was vested the ancient Barony of Mounthermer. Alice, sole daughter and heir of this Thomas de Montacute married Richard Nevill (third son of Ralph, Earl of Westmoreland) created Earl of Salisbury in 1442. John Nevill, third son of this Richard Nevill, Earl of Salisbury, and Alice Montacute was created Marquess Montague in 1470. By the Framlingham pedigree, in the College of Arms, it appears that Sir James Framlingham (the grandfather of Sir Charles Framlingham, the armorial bearings on whose monument we are endeavouring to elucidate) married Anne, daughter and heir of Robert Horne, by Margaret, daughter and co-heir of John Marquis Montague. There is no doubt these quarterings are correctly given. Chitting, Chester Herald, blazons them as above, and attributes them to the same names; and on the Funeral Certificate of Sir Charles Framlingham, now remaining in the College of Arms, the same quartered shield is depicted.

The annexed plate is from a rubbing from the shield at the east end of the monument.

WOLVERHAMPTON CHURCH.

[Shaw's History of Staffordshire.]

In the north wall of the chancel is fixed a monument to the memory of Mrs. Margaret Moseley, her effigies being cut in alabaster, in a praying posture, having a book lying upon a desk before her, and under her monument this inscription and epitaph.

To the noble and worthy matron, Margaret Moseley, second daughter of Sir Clement Hygham, Knight, wife to Humphrey Moseley, Esq., whom, after she had enriched with five sons and three daughters, she departed in peace, and after long widowhood, followed to glory, full of virtue, full of years. Richard Moseley her son thankfully erecteth this monument.

Under this stone a pearl is hid, what then!
 Search not, this pearl is God's and not for men,
 A living pearl she was whose lustre bright
 Yielded all hers a long and sweet delight;
 Noble by birth, by virtue more indeed,
 More fruitfull than she was in fruitfull seed,
 Much fuller than of years she was of grace,
 And more of glory than of grace she was.
 Obit 19 Dec., Anno Domi, 1608, Aetatis 78.

On the top of the monument, an escutcheon with these arms—Quarterly, 1st and 4th, Moseley, Sable, a chevron between 3 millpecks Argent. 2nd and 3rd, (Sherwood semble) Argent, a chevron Sable, charged with 3 escallops of the first; impaling quarterly, 1st and 4th, Heigham, 2nd and 3rd, Francoys.

NARBURGH CHURCH, NORFOLK.

On a stone in this church (Blomefield's History of Norfolk, Cotman's Brasses) is a brass plate, with a figure in complete armour, the hands joined in prayer, the head bare, hair and beard short, with this inscription beneath—

"Here lyeth the body of John Spelman Esquier, who fyrt had to wif Judgith one of the Daughters of Syr Clement Digham Knight, and after Katherine y^r Daughter of William Saundar, Esquier, who had at the day of his death iiii sons and one daughter lyving, viz. Clement and Willm of the body of the sayd Judgith, and Robert franscys and Bryget of y^r hode of y^r sayd Katherine, w^m John deceased y^r xxvii day of Aprell, I. 1581."

QVAND DINU VOLDRA.

There are three shields of brass.

First shield—Spelman, quarterly, 1st and 4th, Spelman, Sable platée, two flaunches Argent; 2nd and 3rd, Narburgh, Gules, a chief Ermine.

Above the shield, on a helmet, his Crest—A wildman proper, a chaplet on his head, and a wreath of leaves round his middle Vert, his left hand by his side, he holds in his right hand a rugged staff, but leaves sprout from the top of the dry wood, which makes me (Blomefield) think it was designed as an emblem of the resurrection.

Second shield—Spelman and Narburgh quarterly, impaling Heigham, quarterly, 1st and 4th, Heigham, 2nd and 3rd, Francoys.

The annexed woodcut is from a rubbing from this brass.

Third shield—Spelman and Narburgh quarterly, impaling Saunders, Sable, a chevron Ermine, between 3 bulls' heads caboshed Argent.

4. Sr. Nicholas Clere, of Ormesbie, Knight, marr. Amabell, daughter and heire of Sr. Will'm Ormesbie, Knighte, whose inheritance remth to this day.
5. Sr. Will'm Clere, of Ormesbie, Knighte, married Katharine, the daughter and heire of Sir John Sucke, Knighte, of Ormesbie.
6. Sr. Robert Clere, of Ormesbie, Knighte, sonne and heire of Sir Will'm, marr. Wellwyn, daughter and heire of Sir John Westles, Knight.
7. Nicholas Clere, of Ormesbie, Esq., sonne and heire to Sir Robt, marr. Murryell, the daughter of Ro. Somerton of Sommerton, in the Countie of Norff., Esquire.
8. Will'm Clere, of Ormesbie, Esq., sonne and heire to Nicholas, wedded the daughter of Hopton, or Swillington, I cannot say directlie, and therefore I reste doubtfull.
9. Will'm (Robert) Clere, of Ormesbie, sonne and heire to Will'm, married Alice, the daughter of Sir John filbie, Knight, of filbie, in fflgee.
10. Will'm Clere, of Ormesbie, Esq., sonne and heire to Roberte, wedded Dyonis, daughter of Sir Will'm Wichingham, Knighte, beinge a Judge in Ed. 3 his tyme, as appearethe in the chauncell windowe at Ormesbie, on the south side of the Churche.
11. John Clere, of Ormesbie, heire to Will'm, married Elizabeth, the daughter of Sir Philip Branche, Knighte.
12. Robert Clere, Esquire, of Ormesbie, sonne and heire to John, marr. Izabell, the daughter and heire of Thomas Udal, of Taclestone, in the countie of Norff., and of his wyfe Marye, the daughter of Reeve, q'rtie, borne with the Udall and Rustinges coate, viz: Argent, a horse passant sable prans (sic. in MS.). Margaret Clere, sole daughter, marr. to Sir Raphe Shelton, of Shelton, in the countie of Norff., knighte.
13. Sir Robert Clere, of Ormesbie, sonne and heire to Robert, marr. Al'ce, the daughter of Sir Will'm Bullyn, knight, of Blickling, in the Countie of Norff.
14. Sir John Clere, of Ormesbie, knighte, sonne and heire to Sir Roberte, marr. Anne, the daughter of Sir Thomas Tirrill, knighte.
15. Sir Edward Clere, of Blicklinge, knighte, sonne and heire to Sir John, married [Frances,] the daughter and heire to Sir Richard ffulmerston, knighte, of Thetforde, after the said Sir Edward married to his 2 wyfe, the daughter of [Robert] Crane, of Chilton, in Suff., the late widowe of Sir Christopher Heydon, knighte, of Baconsthorpe.
16. Edward Clere, Esquire, sonne and heire to Sir Edward, married the daughter of Will'm Yaxley, in Com. Suff., Esquire.

Martin in his History of Thetford states that the tomb of Sir Edward Clere, in the chancel of Blickling church, Norfolk, has around it various coats of arms, which form a regular succession of the family of Clere from the conquest; he describes these shields of arms, and gives an account of the different intermarriages, which he states was taken from Le Neve's Collections relative to the Family o/ Clere. As the arms of the several

* The elder branch of the family of Heigham ended in two daughters, co-heiresses, one married Thomas Clere, of Stokesbie, in Norfolk; the other, Edward Lewkenor, of Sussex, but afterwards in right of his wife of Denham, Suffolk. As both these families are now extint in the male line, and no account of the descent of either of them is to be found in print, we insert, before proceeding with the Heigham pedigree, the pedigree of these families, extracted from MSS. in the British Museum.

families with whom the Cleres were connected by marriage are altogether wanting in the above pedigree, we have extracted from Le Neve's account the blazon of the different coats, together with some additional information as to the pedigree of Clere. "The coat of Clere or Cleremont, Or (Argent) on a fess Gules (Azure) three eaglets. Crest—five ostrich feathers Argent, in a ducal coronet, and underneath written Cleremont. He assisted William, Duke of Normandy, that conquered England, A^o 1066. The Lord Clarrey, who married the daughter of Godfrey, Earl of Patele. Clere, impaling (Or, three spear heads Sable.)"

- *1. Martell, Gules three hammers Or.
- 2. Amberfield, Argent, a chief indented Gules, and three annulets counterchanged.
- 3. Molyns, Paly wavy Or and Gules.
- 4. Ormesby, Gules, a bend componé Argent and Azure, between six cross crosslets fitché Argent.
- 5. Snecke (for Sucke) Gules, a fess Or, on a label of three points Ermine and Sable.
- 6. Westlesse (qr Westley for Westles) Argent, a chevron between six cross crosslets fitché and as many billets Sable.
- 7. Somerton, Or, on a chevron between three lions' heads erased Gules, as many roundels Sable.
- 8. This generation is omitted, and Robert (No. 9) is stated to be the heir of Nicholas (No. 7.)
- 9. Fileby, Argent, an escutcheon in an orle of martlets Gules
- 10. Wytchingham, Ermine, on a chief Sable, three crosses patee Or.
- 11. Branche, Argent, a lion rampant Gules, over all a bendlet Sable.
- 12. Owydall (qr Uvedale for Udall) of three coats. 1, Owydall, Argent, a cross moline Gules. 2, (Reese qr Rise) Gules, a chevron Argent, between three fleur-de-lis Or. 3, Rusteyn, Argent, a horse passant Sable, trapped, bridled, and saddled Or.

Hedger of Lewkenor.

Liber Drury, Add. MSS. Mus. Brit. 5528, fo. 110.

The wor'pfull descent of the auncient and worthie familye of y^e Lewkenors, w^tth such descents of other families as they have matched w'th all, deduced from y^r bodye of Roger Lewkenor, who lived in An^r 14^o Edw. 3rd 1339, unto the right wor'pfull Sir Edw. Lewkenor, of Denham Hall, in com. Suff, Kt., living 1612 and 1615.

* The pedigree from Liber Drury states Richard Lewkenor, the fourth of the six sons of Sir Thomas Lewkenor (who was living in 1466) to have been the husband of Ellionyer, the daughter and co-heir of Sir Richard Camoys. This is undoubtedly an error, as he married Sir Roger de Baudesdale, not Richard the fourth son. The inquisition taken on the 7th of October, in the 5th of Henry 6th, on the death of Hugh Lord Camoys, is conclusive on this point. The jurors found that the aforesaid Hugh died on the 13th August, then last—"Et qd' Margaret, et Alianora, sorores ipsius Hugonis sunt heredes eiusdem. I, Peter Le Neve, have seen a bond of Mary Lady Lewkenor, of Denham, in Suff. widd.; Robert Lewkenor, of Acres, in Kent, Kt.; Robert Quarles, of Romford, in Essex, Kt.; and Tho. Cadyn, of Blaford, in Norff., Esq., wherein they were bound to King James for payment of 233*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* for the wardship and marriage of Edw. Lewkenor, Esq., son and heir of Sir Edw. Lewkenor, Knt., his Majestie's ward. Dated 6 Jac. I.

Godfrey Rodes, of Great Houghton, Yorkshire, Esq., released to Edward Lewkenor, Esq., son and heir of Sir E. L., Kt., and Administrator of his goodes and of all portion for his wife Anne, d^r of Sir Edward. Dated 8 May, 5 Jac. I. Seen by P. Le Neve.

A Release dated 8 of May, in the 6th Year of King James the first, from Thom. Gourney, of West Barsham, Norff., Esq., to Edward Lewkenor, Esq., son and heire, and Administrator of the goods of Sir Edward Lewkenor, Kt., of all portion as having married Martha, one of Sir Edward's daughters. Seen by me, P. Le Neve.

The pedigree of Haigham from the above MS. is omitted, as it will be shewn more fully in a subsequent page, as well as the descent, through Sir Edward Lewkenor of Haigham and Denham, of the other co-heirs of the Barony of Canoya.

The above pedigree contains some additions and alterations from the MS. in the British Museum. These additions and alterations are printed in italics, and are inserted on the authority of the evidence in the Canoys Peerage Case.

The right of the Lewkenor family to quarter the most of the coats which appear on the monument in Denham church, and which correspond with the quarterings as recorded in Sir Edward Lewkenor's funeral certificate, in the College of Arms, appears by the above pedigree. The less assigned to these coats (see description of the armorial bearings on monument in Denham Church, esp[ecially]) appear to be correct, except that 6 ought to be Stoke instead of Echingham. The arms of Radmynde appear to have been a stumbling-block to all (see under last reference on Radmynde arms); the coat which Le Neve in the above pedigree assigns to them—viz.—Argent, on a chief indented Gules, 3 mullets Or, early a mistake; it is the coat of Dike, or rather of St. John; Dike having, after his marriage with the daughter and heiress of St. John, assumed the Arms of St. John; and Gorringe quartered this coat as for Dike.

NOTES TO PEDIGREE OF HEIGHAM, OF HEIGHAM.

(a) Among the chief owners of lands in Fornham All Saints, holding mediately or immediately of the Abbot of St Edmund's, in the 14th of Edward I (1285) was Richard de Heyham; and in the ninth year of Edward II (1316) Richard de Heyham levied a fine of (together with other lands) a messuage and four score acres of land, and eight acres of meadow holden of the Abbot by four shillings rent.—In 1319 Mag^r Tho. de Hecham was Rector of the church of Great Saxham.—(Gage's Suff.)

The Manor of Heigham Hall (formerly spelt Hegham, or Hecham), and the Manor of Gayseley were in 15 Edward I part of the possessions of the Earl of Gloucester, afterwards they were vested in Sir Thomas Pascolewe, who, in 22 Ed. III (1348), conveyed them by feoffment to Walter Grapnall and John Ram, as his trustees, from whom the Heigham family appear to have purchased them, as Thomas Heigham was seised of these Manors in 1429, as heir of Robert Heigham.—(Davy MS., Mus. Brit.)

The Manor of Denham appears to have been early vested in the Hethe family. Thomas de Hethe in 18 Hen. VI, conveyed it to Trustees by whom it was sold; subsequently it was vested in Sir John Shardelow, and by inquisition taken 21 Ed. IV, 1481, on the death of Thomas Heigham, of Heigham, it was found that he died seised of this Manor. The Heigham family, however, had considerable property in this parish at an earlier date. “Thomas Hygham held temp. H. VI of De Vere, Earl of Oxford, two Knight's fees in Denham, juxta Gaselee, which John Delamare formerly held.”—(Harl. MS., 7356.)

The residence of the family was originally at Heigham Hall, at a later period, however, they removed to Denham.

(b) This Coat is not given by Glover in his pedigree, there are, however, several authorities for it. The pedigree of Heigham, in Harl. MS., 1560, which is a copy of the Visitation of Suffolk, by Robert Cooke, Clarenceux, in 1577, gives these arms as the coat to which Alice, the daughter and heir of John Hune, and wife of Thomas Heigham, was entitled to bear; and in Harl. MS., 6065, a copy of Camden's Visitation of Essex, by his deputy John Raven, in 1612, the descent is traced through this marriage, and this coat is given for Hune, or more properly Clun, in the quartered shield of Sir Richard Heigham, of East Ham, in Essex. The same coat is quartered by the Howards Dukes of Norfolk as for Clun.—(Gwillim.)

(c) Thomas Heigham and others, the feoffees of Thomas Hethe, on his decease, in the 19th of Hen. VI (1441), conveyed Luce's Hall, in Westley, to Humphrey, Earl of Stafford, afterwards Duke of Buckingham.—(Gage's Suff.)

(d) This Coat was formerly in the windows of Rowlsby Church, Norff., as borne by Sir Roger de Boyes. Robert de Boyes, the son of Sir Roger, by Sibyll, the daughter of and heir of Robert Yelly (Elly, Illiegh), had a daughter and heir, Catherine, who married Sir Edward Jenney. The ancient family of Jenney, of Knottishall, quartered Boyes (as above), and Illey as well as Wichingham and Plumstead in right of that marriage.—(Chitting MS.)

(e) Chitting in his MS. Collections for Norfolk and Suffolk, has preserved a pardon granted 36 Hen. VI (1458), to this Thomas Heigham, for some offence arising probably (for the transcriber has not copied that part of the document) out of the civil wars of that period. It is curious for the particularity with which the rank and residence of the grantee, and the various judicial offices which he held, are enumerated. It is as follows:—“Henricus d. gr. Rex Ang. et ffran. et D'm's Hi'bae omnibus &c. Sciatis &c. qd. perdonamus &c. Thome Heigham de Heigham in com. Suff. Armigeri al's dict. Tho. Heigham de Heigham in parochia de Gaselee in com Suff., Arm. al's dict. Tho. Heigham, in com. Suff., gentilman, al's dict Tho. Heigham uni Justic. nostr. ad diversas Assa's in com. Norff. et Suff., capienda assign. al's dict. Tho. Heigham nuper uni Justic. nostr. ad diversas (querelas) deliberandas in com. Norff. et Suff. assign. al's dict. Tho. Heigham nuper uni Justic. nostr. ad inquirend. de om'b's actionibus felonis insurrectionibus congregationibus riotis routis transgressionibus quibusq. ultra com. Suff. citra 8 diem Julii A°. regn. n'tri 28 quoscq; et qualiteroq; factis aut perpetratis al's dict. Tho. Heigham uni Justic. nostr. ad pacem in com Suff. conservandum assign. al's dict. Tho. Heigham uni Ball' m ville de Burye Sc. Edi'. ac uni Justic. ad pacem in eadem villa conservand assign seu quoq alio nomine constat., omnimodi &c. In cuius rei testimonium has l'rs nrs fieri fecimus patentes. Teste meipso apud Westm' 10 die Februarii, Anno Regni ntri 36

p'ip'm Regem Tetisworth."

It is observable that, for anything which appears on the face of this document, this pardon might have been granted either by Henry the 6th or Henry the 8th. Both reigned more than 36 years; and in the 36th year of either reign there was a Thomas Heigham, of Heigham, to whom it might refer. These letters patent are, however, undoubtedly of the date of Henry the 6th. The King is described as "Henricus Rex Anglie et Francie et Dominus Hiberniae," this was the style of the Kings of England from a very early period, down to the time of Henry the 8th; but in the 33rd year of his reign the Irish Parliament (confirmed by an English Act in the 36th year) erected Ireland into a Kingdom, and from that time his style was "Rex Anglie Francie et Hiberniae." In corroboration we may add that in 18th of Henry the 6th, Thomas Heygham was one of the "Ballivi Burgi Sc. Edmundi."—(Collectanea Buriensia by Sir James Burroughes.)

By a writ dated at Westminster, 16 July, 3 Edw. IV, 1463, Richard Quatermayne, Thomas Highham and others were appointed with the Sheriffs of Norfolk, Suffolk, Cambridgeshire, &c., commissioners to enquire as to what lands, &c., William, late Vis^t Beaumont and Lord of Bardolph had held on or prior to the day of the accession of the King to the throne.—(Liber de Antiquis Legibus, pub. by Comden Society.)

In 1437, and again in 1452, Nicholas Drury, Thomas Heigham and others presented to the Rectory of Flempton, in Suffolk; and in 1457, Thomas Heigham again presented to this Rectory.—(Gage's Suff.)

(f) The family of Garneys, the descendants of this marriage, continued at Kenton for many generations. On the death of Wentworth Garneys in 1685, this family became extinct in the male line. The present representatives through females are the families of Irby Lord Boston, Irby of Boyland Hall Norff., and Bond of Grange Dorsetshire.

(g) There appears to be an error in this date (1492). In 1482, Thomas Heigham, described as the son and heir of Thomas Heigham, late of Gaselee, deceased, presented to the Rectory of Santon in Norfolk, (his father had, in 1453 and again in 1465, presented to the same Rectory); and in 10 H. VII (1494,) the same Thomas Heigham and Catharine, his wife, granted the advowson of this Rectory to the Mayor and Commonalty of Thetford.

(h) Chitting, Edmondson, Gage, &c., all agree in emblazoning the arms of Cocket as above. The only doubt arises from the monument in Ickworth church, to William Hervey and Joan his wife, daughter of John Cocket of Ampton (from whom the present Marquess of Bristol is descended), where the fleur-de-lis in the arms of Cocket are represented as being in pale instead of in bend, and not counter-changed. (See Vis. of Suffolk, vol. iii, p. 144. This appears to be an error, the arms, undoubtedly, ought to be the same in both cases, as Joan Cocket, the wife of William Hervey, was the granddaughter of the above marriage of Cocket and Heigham.

A licence from the Crown dated 12 March, 18 Ed. IV (1478), was granted to John Cocket, of Ampton, Thomas Heigham, John, son of the said John Cocket, Richard Heigham and Clement Clark, to found a perpetual chantry of one priest to celebrate every day at the altar of the Blessed Virgin in the parish church of Ampton, &c.—(Proceedings of West Suff. Arch. Inst.)

(i) 12 May, 1511, a licence was granted to Philip Tylney, John Gervays, John Heigham and Eustace Braham, to enfeoff (on payment of 57s. 5*1/2*d. into the hanaper), Tho. Blennerhasset in tail with remainder to the right heirs of John Blennerhasset of the Manor of Boyland, with messuages and lands in Osmondeston and Scote, Norff., and Stuston, Thrandeston, Okley, Brome, and Palgrave, Suff.—(Papers Foreign and Domestic, temp. H. VIII.)

(j) By Letters Patent dated 5 Nov^r. 3, H. VIII (1511), Sir Robert Drury, John Aleyn, John Suliard, John Heigham, and William Powle (Poley), were constituted Justices of gaol delivery at Bury St. Edmund's.—(Cal. State Papers Domestic, temp. H. VIII.)

(k) For the quarterings of Terringham and descent from Pabenham, Lucy, Chamberlain, &c., see Glover's Pedigree.

(l) For the descendants of this marriage see Glover's Pedigree.

(m) George Waldegrave, the representative of the elder branch of the ancient family of Waldegrave, of Smallbridge in Bures Suff., was the eldest son of Sir William Waldegrave, by Margery, daughter of Henry Wentworth, of Codham Hall in Essex; from Edward Waldegrave of Borley in Essex, (the younger brother of Sir William) the Earls Waldegrave are descended.

(n) Margery Shelton appears to have been a daughter of Shelton, of Shelton Hall, in Norff, for, although there is no direct authority for this assertion, Chitting in his MS. notes of churches, &c., in Norfolk, taken between the years 1600 and 1620, mentions that the quartered shield of Heigham, the same as in Glover's Pedigree (see above), was then in the windows of Shelton Hall, and as we know of no other connexion between the two families it seems a fair presumption that these arms were placed there with reference to this marriage.

(o) Edmond Heigham is described in the pedigree of Gascoigne, from which the marriage of his daughter Susanne with Bartholomew Gascoigne is taken (Harl. MS., 1178), as of Heigham Hall, and he and his family are so described for many years in the Gaysley Registers; whilst, on the other hand, inquisitions and other documents shew that Heigham Hall, and the estate belonging to it, descended to Anne Cleere, and Susan Lewkenor, the daughters and co-heirs of the last Thomas Heigham. The explanation appears to be that a lease of this property was granted to Edmond Heigham, the father, and also to the son, and which was from time to time renewed; this supposition is confirmed by the settlement in 1610, on the marriage of Sir Edward Lewkenor and Mary Nevill, by which he covenanted to convey to trustees (amongst other things), the capital messuage called Heigham Hall, situate within the hamlet of Heigham, &c., and all houses, lands, tenements, &c., thereto belonging, lately demised or letten to Edmund Heigham, gen., late deceased, by Thomas Cleere, Esquire and Anne his wife.

(p) By the Inquisition taken on the death of Thomas Heigham, it was found that he died on the 9th of August, 4-5 Ph. and Mary, and that Mary, Anne, Lucy, and Susanna were his daughters and heirs; and that he died seised of the Manor of Denham, and lands in Dalham, Needham, and Gaysley, holden of the Earl of Oxford, as of his honor of Hedingham Castle, by two knight's fees; of the Manor of Downham, and lands, &c., holden of the Earl of Oxford as of the aforesaid honor by half a knight's fee; of the capital messuage called Heigham Hall, and lands, tenements, &c., in Higham, Barrow, Kennet, Kentford, and Moulton, holden of the Duke of Norfolk, in right of Margaret, his wife, as of the Manor of Desnidge Hall, and of the Manor of Elvedon, holden of Thomas, Duke of Norfolk.

(q) Sir Henry Nevill, of Billingsbere, was great grandson of Sir George Nevill, Baron Abergavenny, and De la Spenser, whose father, Edward Nevill, (youngest son of Ralph Baron Nevill of Rabie, created Earl of Westmorland, A^o. 1397, K. G. Earl Marshall, &c.,) married Elizabeth Beauchamp, daughter and sole heir of Richard Beauchamp, Baron of Abergavenny, and Earle of Worcester, by Isabell, daughter and sole heire of Thomas Lord de Spencer, and Earle of Gloucester, and great grand-daughter of Edward the third, of England.—Abridged from a Pedigree in the possession of the Townshend Family.

(r) The Estates of Heigham and Denham devolved on Mary Lewkenor; and, although there was no issue of her marriage with Lord Townshend, the whole of them at her death passed to the Townshend family.

In 1664, shortly after the marriage, a fine was levied by her and her husband, of the estates, of which, by the inquisition on the death of her father, Edward Lewkenor, he was found to have died seised; they are described in this fine as the Manors of Denham, Desynyng, or'wise Desyning, Shardeloves, in Cavenham, or'wise Shardelows, in Cavenham, Cressiners, Talmaches, or'wise Talmages, Pasheloves, and the scite of the Manor of Abbotts; and, also 20 Messuages, 10 cottages, one windmill, one watermill, 6 dove-cotes, 30 gardens, 30 orchards, 2600 acres of land, 400 acres of meadow, 800 acres of pasture, 400 acres of wood, 600 acres of furze and heath common of pasture for all manner of cattle, and ten fould courses in Denham, Barrow, Gaseley, Higham, Needham, Kentford, Moulton, Cavenham, Elvedon, Kennet, or'wise Kenelt, Dalham, Hargrave, and Tuddenham, and of the Rectory of Denham, in the county of Suff.; and of the Manor of Kennett, or'wise Kenelt, in the county of Cambridge.

These Estates remained in the Townshend family, until the end of the last century.

In 1795 they were sold by George Townshend, who, in the life time of his father, George Townshend, the fourth Viscount and first Marquess Townshend, was created Earl of Leicester.

(*) In the case of a Barony descendible to the heirs general, on the death of the Baron, leaving only daughters or other co-heirs, the dignity is in abeyance; but the Crown may, at any time, determine such abeyance by conferring the dignity on any one of the co-heirs it may think proper to select. The Crown, however, has in such cases usually exercised this right in favor of the senior co-heir. In the contest before the Committee of Privileges of the House of Lords respecting the Barony of Camoys, Mr. Stonor claimed as senior co-heir in right of his descent from Margaret Camoys, the elder sister and co-heir of Hugh Lord Camoys since whose death in the 4th Hen. VI, A^o. 1426, this Barony had been in abeyance. The claim of some of the co-heirs of this Barony depended on their descent from Elyoner, the younger sister of Lord Camoys, who married Sir Roger Lewkenor (see Lewkenor's Pedigree). Mr. Styleman L'Estrange, and Sir Jacob Astley (as well as Mr. Stonor), rested their claims upon their descent from the elder sister Margaret, who married Ralph Radmylde. This Ralph Radmylde had issue by his wife Margaret, besides a son Robert, two daughters, Margaret and Isabell, who eventually became his co-heirs. Mr. Stonor traced his descent through the Gorings, of Burton, in Sussex, from Margaret the elder of the two; whilst Mr. Styleman L'Estrange and Sir Jacob Astley traced their descent through the Lewkenors, of Heigham and Denham, from Isabell, the younger of the two daughters and co-heirs of Radmylde (see the above Pedigrees of Lewkenor and Heigham). The Crown in 1839, determined the abeyance of this ancient Barony in favor of Mr. Stonor, now Lord Camoys.

NOTES TO PEDIGREE OF HEIGHAM, OF GYFFORDES.

(*) The Arms of Heigham, Cotton, and Heigham quartering Franceys, in painted glass, still remain in the windows of Gyffordes Hall, now reduced to a Farm House.

(^a) The early pedigree of this very ancient family, and their descent from the Argentines, Engaines, and Delahays, is given at length in Harl. MS., 6770. They were seated at Hatley St. George for nearly 500 years. Sir Richard St. George, Clarenceux King of Arms, was the grandson of the above marriage, his son Sir Henry was Garter King of Arms. This Sir Henry St. George left three sons, Sir Thomas St. George, Garter King of Arms; Sir Henry St. George, Clarenceux King of Arms; and Sir Richard St. George, Ulster King of Arms. Sir John St. George of Woodsgift, co. Kilkenny, Bart., and Thomas Gordon St. George of Wood Park, co. Armagh, now represent in the direct male line the issue of the above marriage.

(c) The issue of this marriage continued, for many generations, at Coldham Hall, until Elizabeth, the daughter and sole heir of Thomas Rokewode, the last male descendant, in 1717 carried the estate, by marriage, into the Gage family. The present representative of the ancient family of Rokewode of Coldham, is Sir Edward Rokewode Gage, of Hengrave, Bart.

(d) William Mordaunt (who died in 1491) was the second son of William Mordaunt, of Turvey in Bedfordshire, and ancestor of Sir L'Estrange Mordaunt, created a Baronet in 1611, a quo the Mordaunts Baronets of Massingham Norfolk and Walton D'Eiville in Warwickshire, now remaining. Sir John Mordaunt, the elder brother of William, was the speaker of the House of Commons in 3 Hen. VII (1488). His grandson, John Mordaunt, was summoned to Parliament as Baron Mordaunt of Turvey, in the 23rd Hen. VIII (1532), whose descendant, John Baron Mordaunt, was created Earl of Peterborough in 1628: the latter title became extinct in 1814; and in 1819 the Barony of Mordaunt of Turvey devolved, through female heirs, on the Duke of Gordon, and merged in that title.

(e) By Letters Patent, 35 Hen. VIII, the Crown granted the Manor of Nettewell in Essex, and the advowson of the Rectory of Nettewell, holden of the King in capite to Richard Heigham and his heirs. He also obtained by grant from the Crown, the Manor of Waltham Hall in Takeley, Essex; and dyed seised of these Manors, and of the Manor of Colchester Hall in Takeley, in 1546, when William, his brother, who was upwards of 62 years of age, was his heir. Ing. p.m., I Ed. VI. William dyed in 1558, and was succeeded by his son John Heigham, who, with his wife Martha had, in 1560, license to alienate.

(f) According to the Colt pedigree (2 Vis. Suff., p. 32) John Colt had no issue by his second wife Mary, daughter of Sir John Alne; and a doubt is raised on the authority of Sylvanus Morgan, whether she married secondly Richard Heigham, it being alleged that his wife was a daughter of Cavendish. This doubt has arisen by confounding Richard Heigham with his nephew of the same name. (See pedigree above). The statement, moreover, in the Colt pedigree, that there was no issue of the marriage of John Colt with Mary Alne, is erroneous. Thomas Colt, who in that pedigree is described as the second son by the first wife (Elizabeth Elrington), was, no doubt, the son of the second wife, who, after the death of John Colt in 1521, married Richard Heigham. He by his will (see above), in 1546, devised property to Thomas Colt after the death of his wife Margaret, and appointed her his Executrix. By the Inquisition taken on the death of the widow of Richard Heigham, 5 Ed. VI (1551), it appears that she held Colchester Hall, and other property in Takeley and elsewhere, part of the estate of Richard Heigham; and that on her death her son Thomas Colt, by her first husband, John Colt succeeded to it.—(Morant's Essex).

There is an apparent inconsistency in this account with reference to her name; John Colt, in his will, speaks of Mary his wife; Morant, also, calls her Mary, whilst Richard Heigham, in his will, calls her Margaret; probate however of his will was granted to Mary, his relict.

(g) William Yelverton, the eldest grandson of the above named William Yelverton, was created a Baronet in 1620, which title became extinct in 1649. Christopher, the younger brother of the first Baronet, was, in the 39th of Elizabeth (1597), chosen speaker of the House of Commons. His son Sir Christopher was created a Baronet in 1641, and his grandson, Sir Henry Yelverton, married Susan Baronesse Grey de Ruthyn. Their grandson, Talbot Yelverton, Baron Grey de Ruthyn, and Viscount Longueville, was created Earl of Sussex in 1717, which titles of Longueville and Sussex became extinct in 1799. In 1810, Barbara, late Baronesse Grey de Ruthyn, great-granddaughter of Henry Yelverton, the last Earl of Sussex, was the representative of the ancient family of Yelverton. She married George, second Marquess of Hastings.

(a) Richard Knollys was the fourth son of Sir Thomas Knollys, K.G., by Catherine, daughter of William Carey and Mary Boleyn, sister of Queen Anne Boleyn, the mother of Queen Elizabeth.

(i) The family of Scryven were possessed of an estate at Stradishall for a considerable period. By the Inquisition taken on the death of Thomas Scryven, 10 Hen. VII, (1496), it was found that Edward, his son and heir, was 28 years of age, and that he died seized of the Manor of Shardhows in Stradishall, and of divers lands in Wyckham-brooke, holden of Clement Heigham, as of his Manor of Gyffordes. In 14 Car. I., (1638), Richard Scryven, the then Lord, died, and Heigham Scryven was his son and heir.

(j) Edward Waldegrave was the son of Edmund Waldegrave (by Jane, daughter and heiress of George Ackworth of Lawford), who was the third son of George Waldegrave of Smallbridge, before mentioned. (See pedigree A). He married twice; his first wife was Elizabeth, daughter of Bartholomew Averill of South-Minster in Essex; on his death in 1621, his two daughters, Anne, the only child of the first marriage, who married Sir Drue Drury Baronet; and Jemima, the only child of the second marriage, who married Lord Crew, were his co-heirs.

NOTES TO PEDIGREE OF HEIGHAM, OF BARROW.

(*) Sir Thomas Cooke, who in 1462 was Lord Mayor of London, in 1465 was created a Knight of the Bath by Edward the Fourth, and died in 1478, was born at Lavenham. He was the son of Robert Cooke of that place, and it seems very probable that Lawrence Cooke above mentioned, and who was also of Lavenham, was another son of this Robert, but we have met with no authority to confirm this conjecture.

Sir Thomas Cooke removed to Essex and began Gidea alias Guidy Hall, near Romford, afterwards finished by his great-grandson, Sir Anthony Cooke, who was preceptor to Edward the Sixth, and whose four daughters were the most learned ladies of that age of learned women. One of them married Lord Burghley, another Lord Keeper Bacon, &c. Sir Anthony's great-grandson, Sir Edward Cooke, left two daughters, his coheirs, one of whom, Vere Cooke, married Sir Charles Gawdy, of Crow's Hall, Debenham, as is mentioned in a subsequent note.

(C) Sir Clement Heigham appears to have been employed by the Crown as early as the reign of Henry the VIII. In a letter from Queen Catherine to the King, written at Hampton Court, 25th July, in the 36th year of his reign (1544) the Queen says "My " Lordes of your Majestie's Counsell attendant here have taken order that the sum of " fourtie thousand pounds shall be on Monday next conveyed towards y' Highnes by " Clement Higham appointed for that purpose by the High Treasurer of your Grace's " Warres." (Calendar of State Papers.)

Queen Mary, on her accession to the throne, addressed letters to Sir Clement Heigham and other leading men of Suffolk, commanding them to join her standard at Kenninghall. (Strype's Ecclesiastical Mem. Stowe's Annals.) He was knighted by King Philip in his Chamber at Westminster, on Sunday the 27th Jan., 1554-5. (Notes to Machyn's Diary, pub. by Camden Society.)

Sir Clement Heigham was speaker of the House of Commons in the Parliament, summoned soon after the Queen's marriage with Philip of Spain. It was in that Parliament that all the laws of Henry VIII and Edward VI relating to the reformed religion were repealed, and the reunion of England with the church of Rome effected. The day before the dissolution, a solemn procession of both Houses passed through London from St. Paul's, to give thanks to God for their conversion to the Catholic Church. In this procession there were borne ninety crosses, and no less than 116 priests in their copes and vestments, with eight bishops in pontificalibus took part. Bonner, Bishop of London, carried the pix under a splendid canopy, attended by the House of Lords, and the House of Commons headed by their Speaker, and followed by the Lord Mayor, Aldermen, and City Companies in their several liveries.

In 1558, in order to avert from the Queen and her Council, the murmurs which the loss of Calais had occasioned, Lord Wentworth (2nd Baron Wentworth, of Nettlested) the Governor of that fortress, was brought to trial on a charge of cowardice and treachery; but was honourably acquitted. In anticipation, as it would seem, of the Peers returning a different verdict, the Queen, 15th July, 1558, directed Sir Clement Heigham and Sir John Sulyard to make inventories, &c., of the goods, &c., of Lord Wentworth and to take account of his revenues since the loss of Calais. The same proceedings to be taken by them with reference to the goods, &c., of Sir Ralph Chamberlain and others. (Cal. State Paper.) It appears by the letters preserved among the State Papers of this reign that other men of Suffolk, as well as Lord Wentworth, were engaged in the defence of Calais. On the 29th Dec., 1557, before the fall of that place, the Queen wrote to the Lord Deputy (Wentworth) and the Council of Calais, directing the town of Guisnes, &c., to be defended, abandoning the weaker part only, where necessary, Lord Grey using his discretion therein—and stating that Lygons and Higham, two soldiers of good knowledge and service, were ordered to repair thither. Also, the Earl of Rutland to assist Lord Grey—leave given to change the foot that serve at the Causeway into horse, appointing William Drury to command in such event. On Dec. 31st, the Queen again wrote to the Lord Deputy and Council at Calais, informing them that she forbears to send the Earl of Rutland until further occasion may seem to require his services, but that Ferdinando Lygons and Thomas Heigham proceed forthwith, &c. (State Papers, Foreign, t. Mary.)

In 1540, Sir Clement Heigham purchased the Manor of Barrow with the advowson of the church from Thomas, first Lord Wentworth, of Nettlested, with whom he was distantly connected by marriage, and settled it on himself and wife and his heirs male. Gage, in his account of this parish says, Sir Clement Heigham built Barrow Hall, a large brick building on the south side of the Church, moated, and which was pulled down in the early part of the last century, some fragments of it, together with the fine moat remain. In the summer of 1775, the ground plan of the building was traceable; it was evident that the front had been broken by a centre gate-house and several bay windows. (Ashby's Notes, Cole's MS. Mus. Brit.)

In reward for his services as their counsel, the great Monastery of St Edmund not only granted to Sir Clement Heigham (in 1528) the office of Chief Bailiff of their town of St Edmund (after the death of Sir Robert Drury), with a yearly rent of seven pounds issuing out of their Manor of Old Hall, together with other profits thereto belonging, but also made grants, and leases in his favour of various parts of their property. (amongst others) in 13th Henry VIII (1521) they granted the office of Keeper of their Park of Chevington to Thomas Mounninge and Clement Heigham, with a ground rent of 45 shillings and 6 pence, and other profits and rewards to the same belonging. In 1529, they granted "Clementi Heigham et Thomas Bakone generosis primam et proximum ad vocacionem ecclesiae parochialis de Troston." In 30th Henry VIII, they granted to Clement Heigham, Esquier, a lease for 60 years of the Manors and lands pertayning to the office of hospitaller. (Dugdale's Monasticon.)

Queen Mary also, in recognition of his services in supporting her right to the throne, granted him by letters patent the Manor of Neddynge, al's Nedging, together with other lands in Suffolk. (Originalia in Exch.)

By the Inquisition taken on the death of Sir Clement Heigham, it was found that he died seised of the Manor of Neddynge and lands, &c., in Chelworth, Bildeston, and Whatfield, holden of the Crown in capite by the 40th part of a knight's fee; of the Manor of Barrow, &c., holden of the Duke of Norfolk by one and a half knight's fee; of the Manor of Sener, &c., holden of the Crown in capite by the 40th part of a knight's fee; of the tenement Frezell, in Saxham Magna, holden of the Crown by 10th part of a knight's fee; of Messuages and lands called Andrewe's, in Saxham Magna et Parva, Chevington and Iokworth, holden of Thomas Kyton, arm., as of his Manor of Chevington; of two capital Messuages in St. Edmund's Bury, holden of the Queen of her Barony of Bury; of the Manor of Moulton alias Stonyhall, holden of . . . by half a knight's fee, as of the Manor of Clare; of a pasture called Sutton Magna, in Helgaye and Ruston, in Norfolk, holden of Henry Bedingfield, Knight, as of his Manor of Oxborowe; also other lands, &c., in Barrowe.

(c) The following account of the family of de Moonines is extracted from a MS. by Peter Le Neve (Liber Drury, Mus. Brit.). "Anthony de Moonines, the first son of Gilbert de Moonines (issued d'une maison auncient de Poictiers en Fraunce), wastaken prysoner with his brother Olyver, at y^e battell of Agincote, and was with many others brought into England, when, swearing to serve y^e kinge in all his french warres, he was ransomed and set at libertie. In the 7th year of K. Hen. y^e 6th, A.D., 1428, he served at y^e seige of Orleans, under William de la Poole, then Lieutenant of that seige. After he was taken prysoner with y^e said William de la Poole, Erle of Suffolk, at Jargeaux. At length growinge eld, havinge followed the Erle in all the King's warres in ffrance, he left his sonne Henry whom he had trained up in his place, and soe dyed not long after, about An. D., 1443: his mariage was not knowne, but he left one sonne, Henry de Moonines, who followed y^e Erle in his service in ffrance; and when y^e Erle was now made Marquess of Suffolk, he often employed him in sundry busynesses in ffrance, not long after the Marquess was made Duke of Suffolk, &c., &c. This Henry left y^e ffrenche warres, withdrawing himself into the country to lead a retired lyfe: he came into Suffolke, where y^e Duke had sundry possessions, amongst the which he had been often employed; when contenting himself to live in mean condition, he gave himselfe muche to devotion, for y^e wth he visited often the Shrine of St. Edmund at Burye, not far from which towne he remayned. He married Elizabeth, the daughter of Thomas Charles, of Kettleborouge, and soe died about A.D., 1478. The armes of Thom. Charles were—Ermine on a chief Gules, 3 mases of the first. He left issue two sonnes and one daughter.

Jean de Monnines, the first sonne, followed De la Poole, Duke of Suffolk, y^e son of y^e said William; to which John, for that he and Henry, and Anthony his ancestors had done faythfull service to y^e families of y^e De la Poole's, the said John De la Poolé, Duke of Suffolk, did lett unto this John Mounynes the Manors of Nedginge Hall, with some other things in Suffolk. He married Margaret, 3^d daughter of Henry Woodwoorde. Barry of 6 Or and Sable, a canton Gules. To this John de Monnines the Abbot of Burye made the first lease of Seamer Hall, in Suffolk." John de Monnines left one son and two daughters, one of whom was the first wife of Sir C. Heigham. (See above).

(d) For an account of the issue of this marriage See above, note to Sir Clement Heigham's Will. It should, however, be stated that Mary the fourth daughter married Thomas Barrow, of Westhorpe, in Suffolk, not Bacon, as by mistake printed in the above note. There was issue of this last-mentioned marriage.

The two daughters and co-heirs, who married Sir William Butts and Thomas Butts, died without issue; and Sir Nicholas Bacon, by virtue of his marriage with Anne Butts, the only child and heir of Edmund Butts and Anne Buers, became possessed of three fourths of the Buers Estates.

(e) Jane, the daughter and sole heiress of William Kempe, of Spains Hall, the eldest son of the above marriage, married Sir John Burgoyne, of Sutton, in Bedfordshire, Baronet, ancestor of the present Sir John Montague Burgoyne, of Sutton Park.

(f) Thomas Turnour, the representative of the elder branch of the family of Turnour, of Haverhill, in Suffolk, was the son of Henry Turnour, by Anne, daughter of John Smyth, of Cavendish (See Smyth Pedigree, II Vis. Suff.), from whose younger brother, Edward Turnour, of Much Parendon, in Essex, are descended the Turnours, Earls of Winterton, now represented by the present Edward Turnour Earl of Winterton.

(g) From the marriage of Humphrey Moseley with Margaret Heigham, descended the Moseleys, of Ousden. The late John Moseley, Esq., of Great Glenham House in Suffolk, who died about the year 1864, and who, in 1808, sold the Ousden estate, was the last male representative of that family.

(h) The above-mentioned John Bokenham was the last male heir of the ancient family of that name long seated at Livermere.

(i) Francis Stonor, or Stonard, of Knowles Hill in Stapleford Abbot, was the son of George Stonard, of Loughton Hall in Essex, in which parish this family, for some time, had considerable possessions. John Stonard, who died in 1541, is buried with his two wives in the north aisle of the chancel of the church of Loughton. Clement, born in 1558, the eldest son of the above marriage of Francis Stonor, and Lucy Heigham died in 1612, leaving by Mabel his wife, daughter of Roger Harlakenden, a son and heir Francis, who married Jane, daughter of Edward Bacon, of Codenham, in Suffolk. Amy Stonor, their daughter and heir, married George Waldron, she died 24 August, 1712, aged 86 years. Her epitaph, in Stapleford church, describes her as the last surviving child of Francis Stonor, of Knowles Hill.

The Arms of Stonor, or Stonard, Azure, 2 bars dancettée Or, a chief Argent, as they appeared on these monuments in Loughton and Stapleford, are precisely the same as those of Stonor, of Stonor in Oxfordshire, in whom the Barony of Camoys is now vested (See above, Notes to Pedigree of Heigham of Heigham). There can be little doubt that the Stonors, of Loughton and Stapleford, are a branch of that family, although we are unable to point out the common ancestor.

(j) Sir John Heigham was knighted in 1579. (Land. MS., 678.) He commanded, in 1588, on the threatened invasion by the Spanish Armada, one of the Suffolk bands of Infantry at the Camp at Tilbury Fort. Other bands were commanded by Sir William Waldegrave, Sir William Spring, and Sir Nicholas Bacon "each had in his band 500 men, all choice men, and disciplined and singularly furnished." (Reyce's Breviary, Mus. Brit.) When Queen Elizabeth made her progress through Suffolk, Her Majesty was entertained by Sir John Heigham, at Barrow Hall. (Gage's Suff.) In 5th Jac. (1608) Sir John Heigham obtained a grant from the Crown for him and his heirs to hold two yearly Fairs at Barrow. (Originalia in Ex. and Cal. State Papers.)

(k) Sir Clement Spelman, the eldest son of this marriage, was High Sheriff for Norfolk, in 1598.

Sir Henry Spelman, the learned author and great antiquary, who died in 1641, and was buried in Westminster Abbey, was a member of this family.

(l) Sir Charles Framlingham married, secondly, Elizabeth, daughter of Sir Thomas Barnardiston, Knight, by whom he had no issue. After his death his widow married Sir Henry Gawdy of Claxton Knight, High Sheriff for Norfolk in 1594, and again in 1607. She was his second wife. There was no issue of that marriage.

(m) Sir Bassingbourne Gawdy was descended from the Gaudys of Redenhall and Harleston, in Norfolk (the first of that family was Sir Brews Gawdey, a French Knight, who was taken prisoner in 1352, was naturalized, and settled in Suffolk). The elder branch of the family was afterwards long seated at Claxton, in Norfolk. The grandmother of Sir Bassingbourne was the daughter and one of the co-heiresses of Sir John Bassingbourne, of Woodhall, in Hertfordshire (another daughter and co-heiress married Sir Nicholas Hare, of Stow-Bardolph, in Norfolk, Speaker of the House of Commons in 1640). Framlingham Gawdy, the eldest son of the above marriage of Gawdy and Framlingham, inherited his father's (the Herling) estate. He left an eldest son, Sir William Gawdy, created a Baronet in 1663, but which title became extinct on the death of his grandson, Sir Bassingbourne Gawdy, in 1723. Sir Charles Gawdy, High Sheriff for Suffolk, in 1618, the second son of Sir Bassingbourne by Anne Framlingham, inherited his mother's (the Crowe's Hall in Debenham) estate. His son Sir Charles Gawdy, married Vere, daughter and co-heiress of Sir Edward Cooke, of Guidy Hall, Essex, and their eldest son Sir Charles Gawdy was created a Baronet in 1611. That Baronetcy is also extinct. Sir Bassingbourne married, secondly, Dorothy, daughter of Sir Nicholas Bacon, of Redgrave, Baronet, the first person advanced to that dignity.

(n) From John Sayer, the eldest son of this marriage, descended the Sayers family, of Bourchiers Hall, Essex, and since of Pett: now represented by George Edward Sayer, Esquire, of Pett, Charing, Kent.

(o) From this marriage descended Heigham Risby, of Thorpe Morieux, whose daughter and co-heir married Robert Sparrow, of Offton, in Suffolk, whose only daughter and heir married John Sparrow, of Halsted, in Essex, now represented by his great-grandson Henry Weare Sparrow, Esquire, of Gosfield Place, in Essex.

(p) Sir Clement Heigham was knighted in 1591, Lansd. MS.; he "with Cavendish Clifford and others of the same rank was admitted M.A. at Cambridge in 1594, at the time of the Earl of Essex being there."—Cole's M.S., Mws., Brit.

(q) Heigham Coke, the grandson of the above marriage, married Elizabeth, daughter of Sir Willoughby D'Ewes, of Stowlangtoft Hall, Suffolk, whose eldest son, D'Ewes Coke, married Frances, the co-heir of William Coke, of Trusley, co. of Derby. His descendant, Francis Lillyman D'Ewes Coke, Esquire, of Trusley and Brookhill, in Derbyshire, now represents the Trusley branch of that family as well as his direct ancestor, the Bishop of Hereford.

(r) Thomas Heigham, the fifth son of Sir Clement Heigham, by his marriage with Anne Cardinall, appears to have been the translator of "The Ghosts of the deceased Sieurs de Villemor and de Fontaines, a most necessarie discourse of Duells wherein is shewed the means to roote them out quite, With the Discourse of Valour by the Sieur de Chevalier. Printed by Cantrell Legge, printer to the Vniversitie of Cambridge, 1624." He dedicated this translation "To my thrice-honoured kinsmen the two worthy Knights Sir William Harvey, of Ickworth, and Sir Edvvard Sulyard, of Hauley."

(s) In 1677 Clement Heigham conveyed the Barrow estate to trustees for sale. He died in 1686; and in 1694 his eldest son, Clement Heigham, Rector of Barrow, joined with the trustees in selling the estate to Sir Thomas Hervey, of Ickworth, in whose descendant, the Marquess of Bristol, it is now vested.

(t) Luke Skippon, D.D., was the younger of the two sons of Luke Skippon, of West Lexham, in Norfolk. The elder son, Philip, was the celebrated Parliamentary General. Clarendon, in his History of the Rebellion, states that Philip Skippon, whom the Parliament in 1642 appointed by their own authority to be Major General of the Militia of the City of London, was a man who had served long in Holland, and from a common soldier had raised himself to the degree of a captain; that he was a man of order and sobriety, but altogether illiterate. It seems scarcely possible that this statement of his having risen from the ranks and of his want of education can be correct. William Skippon (the uncle of the General), who was of Tavistock, in Devonshire, by his will made in 1631, devised property to his nephew Philip, the eldest son of his brother Luke, whom he describes as Captain Philip Skippon. He had no family, and by the inquisition taken on his death, 11 Car. (1635) it was found that his brother Luke was his heir, and that he died seized of lands in Foulsham, in Norfolk, &c. On the death of Luke Skippon, of West Lexham, by the inquisition then taken, March, 15 Car. (1639) it was found that Philip Skippon, of Foulsham, Esq., was his son and heir, and then of the age of forty years. It seems most improbable that the uncle and father, who were both men of property, as the fact of an Inq. p.m. being held on the death of each of them proves, should have brought up their heir, with whom they lived on friendly terms, as appears by their wills, without any education, or that he should have been obliged to enter the army as a private soldier, whilst his younger brother Luke received an education at the University, where he obtained the degree of Doctor in Divinity.

Major-General Skippon died in 1661. He had issue by his wife Maria Comes, to whom he was married in 1622, eight children, all of whom died young, except one daughter, Susannah (born in 1635, and married in 1655, to Richard Meredith, eldest son of Sir William Meredith, Bart., of Leeds, in the county of Kent), and one son, Philip, the youngest of the eight, born in 1641. The son, Sir Philip Skippon, married twice, his first wife was Amy, daughter of Francis Brewster, of Wrentham, Suffolk, to whom he was married in 1669. By her, who died the 2nd of Decr. 1676, he had only one surviving child, a son (Philip), born in 1675, and who died in 1716, unmarried, and was buried at Edwardstone, in Suffolk. His second wife, to whom he was married in 1679, was Anne, daughter of Sir Thomas Barnardiston, of Kedington (Ketton), and niece of Samuel Barnardiston, the first Roundhead (both of whom however, were, after the Restoration in 1663, created Baronets). She died in 1683, leaving two daughters, Mary, who died unmarried in 1691, and Ann, who married Samuel Brand, of Edwarston. Sir Philip died in 1691, and was buried at Ketton.

Luke Skippon, the brother of the General, had five daughters, including the above-named Susan, the wife of Clement Heigham, but no son: all the other daughters except Susan, died without issue. The family of Skippon appears to be extinct in the male line.

(From information communicated by the Rev. William Grigson, of Whinburgh, with some additions compiled from the notes in the Skippon Bible, now in the possession of Nathaniel Barnardiston, Esq., of the Ryes, near Sudbury, and printed in Mis. Her. et Gen.)

(u) Author of a sermon entitled "A Call to a General Reformation of Manners," preached at the Archdeacon of Sudbury's Visitation, holden at Kentford, in Suffolk, "in April 1700, by Clement Heigham, Esq., now Rector of Barrow, in Suffolk. Lond., "4to, 1700. Dedicated to Charles Viscount Townsend, whom he stiles his kinsman."—Cole's MS. Mus. Brit.

(v) There was issue of the marriage of Thomas Bright with Elizabeth Heigham (besides a daughter Mary who married John Risby, of Thorpe Morieux, but left no issue, and two other daughters who died unmarried), two sons. The younger son, Heigham Bright, died unmarried; the elder son, Th^e Bright, of Nether Hall, left one son, Thomas, who died in 1736 unmarried. At his death the Nether Hall Estate devolved on his only sister and heir Mary Bright, who married Edmund Tyrell of Gipping; and by that marriage the Netherall estate passed to the Tyrell family. The issue, however, of that marriage became extinct in the next generation, when the descendants of the above marriage of Bright and Heigham, wholly failed. (See the very interesting account of the "Bright's of Suffolk," printed for private distribution, by J. B. Bright, of Waltham, Massachusetts, New England, descended from Henry Bright, of St. Edmundsbury, the younger brother of Robert Bright, the first possessor of Nether Hall).

(w) The above mentioned Robert Longe was the grandson of the Robert Longe whose daughter Elizabeth married Clement Heigham of Barrow, as above shewn. His wife Susan Heigham was his first cousin, being the daughter of his aunt Elizabeth (Longe) Heigham.

The family of Longe, descended from this marriage, is now represented by John Longe, Esq., of Spixworth Park, Norfolk.

(x) From this marriage the Barnwells, of Mileham, in Norfolk, descended; now represented by the Rev. Charles Barnwell Barnwell, who assumed by royal license the name of Barnwell, in lieu of Herring; his father, John Herring, Esq., having married the daughter and heiress of John Barnwell, of Bale, the brother of Charles Barnwell, of Mileham, Esq. From this marriage also descended the late Charles Frederick Barnwell, Esq., keeper of antiquities in the British Museum.

NOTES TO PEDIGREE OF HEIGHAM, OF EAST-HAM.

(a) Richard Stoneley left two daughters, coheiresses, the above-mentioned Anne, the wife of William Heigham, and Dorothy, who married William Dawtrey, of Moor House, in Sussex, the representative of the very ancient family of Dawtrey (De Alta Ripa) of that county. Anne and her descendants quartered with the arms of Stoneley the above coat, Azure a fess between three scythe blades (or horns) Or. Lysons (Environs of London) emblazons them as scythe blades; but on the brasses on the East-Ham monuments they appear more like horns. The descent above mentioned, through the heiresses of Braunche and Hampden, for which we have the authority of Burke (Hist. of the Commoners), under Taylor, of Clifton, does not explain it, this coat not agreeing with the arms either of Braunche or Hampden.

(b) The above mentioned Samuel Plume, who married Dorothy Heigham, was the eldest son of Thomas Plume, of Great Yeldham Hall. His nephew, Thomas Plume, the son of his younger brother Thomas, who was educated at Chelmsford School and Christ's College, Cambridge, and was Vicar of Greenwich and Archdeacon of Rochester, was the founder of the Plumian Professorship in the University of Cambridge.

(c) Hurst Hall, or The Hurst, was situated in Holcroft, in Lancashire, and belonged to a branch of the family of Holcroft, of Holcroft, which place, Camden says, "gave both seat and name to the famous family of the Holcrofts."

(d) The Bendish or Bendyses family were of Steeple Bumstead, in Essex, of whom Sir Thomas Bendish was raised to the degree of Baronet in 1611, but which title has expired. The Bendyses of Barrington, in Cambridgeshire, are now the head of this ancient family. They have always borne for their arms—Argent, a chevron Sable between three rams' heads erased Azure—but a younger branch, descended from the principal stock at Steeple Bumstead, and which settled in Suffolk, bore the chevron Azure. The above named Robert Bendish belonged, no doubt, to the Suffolk branch, as his arms, which we have assigned to him on the authority of the Heigham and Bendish pedigrees, in the College of Arms, are the same.

(e) Edward Harrison, of Balls, the eldest son of the above mentioned Richard Harrison, and brother to Audrey, the wife of Heigham Bendish, left by his wife, Frances, daughter and heir of Reginald Bray, of Barrington, in Gloucestershire, an only daughter and heiress, Audrey, who married Charles, third Lord Vis. Townshend, and carried the Balls Park Estate into that family, in whose possession it still remains.

On the font in the church of East-Ham is the quartered shield of Sir Richard Heigham:—1st, Heigham; 2nd, Francys; 3rd, (in right of Stoneley); 4th, Stoneley; and on the rim of the basin the following inscription is engraved:—

NOTES TO PEDIGREE OF HEIGHAM, OF HUNSTON.

(^a) The Manor and Rectory of Hunston et al's Hunterston, were parcel of the possessions of the Priory of Ixworth, and after the dissolution of that religious house, were granted by Hen. VIII, in 1538, together with the other estates belonging to that Priory, to Richard Codington and Elizabeth his wife, in exchange for the Manor of Codington, et al's Nonsuch, in Surrey. A considerable estate in this parish was vested in the Ashfield family, and was, in 1614, purchased by John Lurkin (the first of that name in the above pedigree), from Sir Robert Ashfield. The manor was about the same time vested in the Frost family, and was, in 1727, together with a small estate annexed, purchased by the Lurkins from the assignees of Edmund Frost, the last of that name connected with Hunston.

(^b) The Manor of Shouldham Priory in Dersingham, part of the possessions of that Priory, was, in the 36th Hen. VIII, granted to John Dethick, who in the 38th of that reign, had license to alien it to the above mentioned John Pell, who, by the Inq. p. m. in 3rd Philip and Mary, was found to have died seised (inter alia) of this manor. By his will he directs to be buried in the church of Dersingham. He appears to have been of the family of Pell, of Dimblesby, in Lincolnshire, and was probably the same John Pell, who, according to the Heralds' Visitations for that county, was the son of Sir Anthony Pell, of Dimblesby. He bore the same arms as that family, and according to Burke, the grant of these arms was made to Pell, of Dimblesby, co. of Lincoln, and Dersingham, co. of Norfolk.

(^c) On an altar tomb at the east end of the south aisle of Dersingham church, is the following inscription:—

“Hic jacet Johannes Pell, de Dersingham, armiger, quondam Major Linnae Regis, qui uxorem duxit Margaretam filiam unicam Gulielmi Overend, armigeri, annos 61 feliciter una vixerunt, sex filios et tres filias inter se habuerunt. Ille vero cum annos 80 compleverat quinto die Februarii A° Do'ni 1607, matura senectute mortem obiit et octavo die ejusdem mensis corpus sepulchro condebatur.

MEMORANDA.

Under this head we shall give a few notices of matters which in the days of Elizabeth came under the jurisdiction of magistrates: they have an interest as they shew the vast difference between the duties of a magistrate then, and at the present time. And we shall insert a few letters and other documents which are always of interest, as they describe better than any narrative the manners and habits of former days.

Sir John Heigham succeeded to the Barrow estate on the death of his father, in 1570, and through a long life (he died in 1626) appears to have taken an active and leading part in every thing connected with the public business of the county, and especially with the duties of a magistrate. The following notices relate principally to matters in which he was concerned.

The earliest in date of the following letters are from the very valuable collection of Norfolk and Suffolk Letters in the possession of Daniel Gurney, Esq., of North Runcton.

1581. The first matter we notice relates to the interference of Justices in matters ecclesiastical. It is taken from Strype (Annals of Reformation), where he gives a very long account of the complaint made by Freke Bishop of Norwich, in 1581, against certain magistrates of Suffolk with reference to their conduct in matters which had arisen out of the contention between the Bishop and certain ministers and preachers in the town of Bury and neighbourhood. The dispute between the Bishop and these ministers had its origin in the appointment by him of a Mr. Handson and others to take the charge and order of the "Exercise of Prophecyng," as it was called. These exercises, says Strype, were "for the inciting those that were in orders to apply themselves to the study and understanding of the holy scriptures, and to enable them to preach profitable sermons in their several cures." These exercises, however, were greatly abused by the puritanical clergy, who desired to make great innovations in the ceremonies and liturgy of the church. The Queen had, by an order of the Star Chamber, sequestered the Primate (Grindal) from his archiepiscopal function for refusing to obey her orders for the suppression of prophecyngs, or the assemblies of the zealots in private houses, which she apprehended had become so many schools of fanaticism.

One of the effects of these exercises in Bury was to create a serious opposition to the Prayer Book; an opposition mainly promoted by Mr. Handson and by Mr. Browne, another minister of the town. The Bishop, being appealed to, removed them from their livings, and inhibited them to preach. Browne, however, returned to Bury and renewed his preaching. "The good Bishop (says Strype) found himself not strong enough to encounter the gentlemen and justices who carried all before them in their countenancing these disaffected persons to the orders and discipline of the church." He wrote to the Lord Treasurer "craving help to suppress him" (Browne) and enclosing letters informing him of the discouragement which the wiser sort of preachers met with from certain gentlemen in Suffolk, about Bury. One of these letters was from Dr. John Deye the Bishop's commissary. He states that "Sir Robert Jermin, Sir John Higham, and Mr. Badbie, had dealt very badly and revengingly with him, and did mind very imperiously to proceed. The cause was that he did the Friday before call certain honest men of both parishes of Bury, proposing to make them questmen That the aforesaid justices did presently then send for him; and for that he had so done, and had sworn six of them, not making the justices first privy unto it, they called him Jack and knave, he knew not how often, &c., &c., &c."

The Bishop then preferred before the Lord Treasurer certain articles against the justices. In these articles they were charged with countenancing disobedient and disorderly men, particularly that they favoured Coppin and Tyler, who some years previously were imprisoned for spreading of Browne's books, which condemned the Book of Common Prayer and the whole constitution of the church That they refused divers ministers ordained by the Bishop because they were ignorant and could only read. That they were for nothing but "Geneva Psalms and Sermons." That they endeavoured to remove one Wood, a minister, from his living because he only read, and gave him warning to be gone. That at an Inn called the Angel, they meddled with ecclesiastical causes belonging to the Bishop. That they made violent speeches against the Commissary, and threatened to send him to gaol. That Mr. Philips, for preaching a sermon at Bury exciting to obedience to the Queen and her laws, was required and bound to an assurance before them, &c."

Strype, in an appendix, gives at length the answer of the justices to these articles, entitled "The answer of Sir Richard Jermyn, Sir John Heigham, Knights, Robt. Ashfield, and Thomas Badby,* Esquires, Justices of Suffolk and Norfolk, to certain Articles objected against them by the Bishop of Norwich."

They deny that they had moved in favour of Copin and Tyler. They express their surprise that the articles "durst offer a butt at Geneva Psalms and Sermons, the psalms being David's and other holy fathers inspired by the Holy Ghost, and the necessity of sermons his lordship knowing." That Mr. Wodde had been chosen by the parishioners of St. James's and put on trial, but proving "to be utterly unable to discharge the place warning was given him by like order to avoid." That he refused, "justifying himself to be sufficient for the place because he could read the service established in the book of Common Prayer." Sir John Higham answered, "that if he had no better proof of his sufficiency, they might have a boy of twelve years old to do as much as he," To the charge of meeting at the Inn they reply that the Angel Inn was their ordinary place of meeting for justice business, and that they never meddled in any ecclesiastical matter unless by assignment to them. They deny the threat of sending the Commissary to gaol, &c. They say Mr. Phillip's sermon was designed to deprave the godly preachers of the town and county, comparing them to unbridled colts rushing through the whole hedge, and calling them vipers, serpents, unsatiable beasts, &c. That Mr. Badby, who heard this sermon sent for him (Phillips), telling him of his indiscretion, and bound him to appear before the justices at a certain hour the next day; for which proceeding Mr. Badbie was himself cited into the Court of the Commissary at the same hour, and not appearing, was excommunicated! That Phillips having demeaned himself contemptuously before the justices, was bound to his good behaviour, Mr. Ashfield remarking, "We are more troubled with these unrestricted knaves than with all the county beside." Strype gives the following quaint account of the conclusion of these troubles: "These courses went on at Bury for some years, the ministers varying from or altering the Common Prayer at their discretion, disliking the order of it, and depraving the book —asserting the Queen's supremacy to be only in civil matters, not religious; and some also holding certain heresies, as that Christ was not God, &c., and many young ministers of this sort increasing in these parts, and all this in great measure by the favour of some of the justices; till in the year 1583, they received a check (!) by some severe proceedings at the Assizes at Bury, Sir Christopher Wray, Lord Chief Justice, being upon the bench—when many were convicted, and some obstinately persisting, put to death, and the justices reprimanded and warned to keep the peace. The Bishop quite weary of living there, got a remove a year or two after to another bishopric."

The two next extracts relate also to disputes arising out of the religious controversies of the day.

1582. August 11th. Sir Robert Jermyn, Sir John Heigham, and others to the (Privy) Council. Detail their proceedings in the attempt to allay the disputes at Thetford are of opinion that the Mayor and his associates are very cold in the cause of religion, and never yet would consent to entertain a preacher. They inclose:—

Particulars of the demeanor of Tho. Allen, Mayor of Thetford, and the rest of his associates, Will^m Davie, the chief author of all the factions. Mr. W^m Stevenson, is a very wicked and incontinent man, and yet rejoiceth therein.

Also several other inclosures, one is signed Th^e. Allen, A Mayor, his mark, and other members of the corporation also sign by their marks. State Papers, Domestic, vol. 155.

* Mr. Badby, unlike his brother justices, does not bear a well-known Suffolk name. He appears to have been the Thomas Badby, who in 1560 bought of John Eyre (the original grantee from the Crown) the site of the dissolved monastery of St. Edmund, in Bury, and who died in 1583, and was buried in the church at Rushbrook, where there is a brass which describes him as "of Bury St. Edmund's, within the county of Suffolk, Esquier, one of y^e Quenes Ma'ties Receyvers, and sonne and heyre of William Badby, of Layermarney, within the county of Essex, gent."

1583. February. The Council to Dr. Masters, Chancellor of Norwich, To determine the suit of Robert Drewrie, Esquire, patron of the benefice of Rougham, in Suffolk, against Will^t Teye, parson of that place, for not reading the Articles according to the statute; and to take order that the tithes, &c., be duly paid to Oliver Pigg, a godly preacher, deputed to the cure there, till the suit shall be determined.

Same to Sir John Heigham.—To take order and settle the variance between Robert Drewry and Oliver Pigg, as to payment of tithes till the suit between them shall be ended. State Papers, Domestic, vol. 158, Nos. 79 and 80.

1584. Thomas Heigham, second son of Sir Clement Heigham, Chief Baron, to Bassingborne Gaudy, Esq.

My very good Cosin, it may please you to understand yt abought eyght or tenne weakes past strayed from me a black gray mare w^t a mare foale of a yeere ould by her side, of couler blacker then the mare, and having cauesd them to be cried in divers markets, on Saterday last at Thetford I cauesd to be serched y^e boke of entreys for such occasion in y^e foresayd towne, Wheare was found y^t one Mr. Futter had caused them to be cried, and so I presently sent unto him, who answered yt he tooke up such theare within your manor, and according to a bond or covenant betwene you and yo^r sayd farmer, he sent them immedately over unto you. Whearfor theas are ernestly to desire you that this bearer, my servant, may have them delivered unto him, who shall make satisfaction for thear meate at yo^r discretion. " To y^e Wo^l my very good and loving Nephew Bas'med Gaudy, Knight, Sheriff of Norfolke, at Harling East, Theas."

In the margin of the above letter:—

" Sr, I have sent twise to denuer (Denver) and to Gregory Prate, whear my unlucke bargaynes wear made, and whear he then dweltt, and now at this time w^th my attorney's fee and y^e charge of y^e writ, w^tch charges w^th his arrest being reasonably considered of, with my principlall debt, iijj/. xs., if you may be possessed hearof to my use, I shall be content to cease from further sute by cause I desier not to be contentious and yet willing to have my owne."

1589. Sept. 5. Sir John Heigham and Bassyngborne Gaudy to the Council. They have heard the suit of Robert Hall against Th^t. Ford, concerning land mortgaged by Michell Hall, and sold by Thomas Ford to one William Forth. Mr. Ford utterly refuses to yield to any reasonable order. State Papers, Domestic, vol. 226.

On the death of any of the King's tenants in capite an inquisitio post mortem was held to inquire of what lands, &c., he died seized, in order to entitle the crown to the wardship of the heir in case he was under age. To superintend these inquiries the Court of Wards and Liveries was instituted by Hen. VIII. On office found for the King he was entitled (the heir being an infant) to immediate possession of the lands with all intermediate profits from the death of the King's tenant, and to retain possession of them until such time as the infant heir should attain his full age.

The following agreement was made very shortly after the death of Sir Charles Framlingham, whose sole daughter and heiress Anne (by Dorothy, sister of Sir John Heigham), had married Sir B. Gawdy, she, however, died in her father's lifetime, and on the death of Sir Charles Framlingham, her eldest son, Framlingham Gawdy, then under age, was heir to his grandfather. Hence arose the right of the Queen to the possession during the minority of the heir of the lands of Sir Charles Framlingham, which he held in capite under the Crown, and the Lord High Treasurer Burleigh having given the benefit of it to Thomas Heigham, he, for the consideration mentioned in the following agreement, agrees to transfer his right to Gawdy, the father of the infant. Sir Nicholas Bacon (the eldest son of Lord Keeper Baron, and who, in 1611, was the first person created a Baronet) is a party to the transaction, no doubt in consequence of Gawdy having, after the death of his first wife, Anne Framlingham, married a daughter of Sir Nicholas. These observations will explain the meaning of the following agreement.

1595. "Articles of Agreement indented, concluded, and made between Thomas Heigham, gent, seconde sonne of Sir John Heigham, Knight, on the one p'tye, and Sir Nicholas Bacon, Knight, on the other p't, the 26 day of July, in the 37th yeare of the Reigne of our Soverigne Lady Queene Elizabeth, in manner and form following, viz: Whereas yt hath pleased the Right Honorable the Lord Burleigh, Lord High Treasurer of England, M^r of the Wards, to bestowe uppon the sayd Thomas Heigham, his servant, the lease of the lands belonginge to her Heighness by the death of Sr Charles Framlingham, Knight, deceased. That the sayd Thomas Heigham for the considerations hereinafter expressed, hath covenanted and granted by these presents to and with the sayd Sir Nicholas Bacon, that after the office found of and for the sayd lands, that the sayd Thomas Heigh'm shall for and in the name of Bassingborne Gaudy, Esquire, and upon the payment of the fine by the sayd Bassingborne, and at the further costs and charge in the lawe of the sayd Bassingborne, at or before the feast of St. Andrew next ensewinge, sue out and obtaine the lease of the lands aforesayd, and deliver yt to the sayd Bassingborne or his assignes. In consideration whereof the sayd Sr Nicholas Bacon shall content and paye or cause to be contented and payd to the sayd Thomas Heigham, on Thursdaye next, beinge the last daye of July, at the house of the sayd Sir John Heigham, in Barrow, in the county of Suff, two hundred pounds of good and laulf money of England. And shall also enter his bounde obligatorie to the sayd Thomas in the penall sum of one hundred pounds, for the true payment of lxviij. xiiij. iiiid. of lawfull money of England, in and upon the last day of October next ensewing, at the place aforesayd. In wittnesse whereof the p'ties above sayd have to ths presents putt our haunds and sealys the daye and yeare first above written.

Tho. Heigham."

Sealed and delivered in the presence of

The Council to Sir John Higham.

By our former letters to you and the rest of the Justices for Suffolk, divers recusant of that County were restrained, amongst whom Edw. and Robt. Rokewood, Roge Martin, John Daniel, and Mrs. Elizabeth Drury, were committed to your custody. A you have certified that such persons have behaved themselves dutifully since their commitment, save only in matters of religion, and as they have been long restrained an have made humble suit to be enlarged, you are to set them at liberty, taking bonds i good sums for their forthcoming within 10 days' warning: Cal. State Papers, Domestie, 1595 to 1597.

Sir John Heigham to (probably Sir B. Gawdy).

Good Sr, I am informed that my honest neighbour Thomas Saddleton is indebted t Francis Warner, yo^r servant. His desire is to pay the principall with interest for th same. I am verie hartely to desire you to p'swade yo^r sayd servant to accept of hi offer. I will bee ready to entreat upon the like occasion at yo^r request for any yc honest neigbo^r. And so wth mie hartie com'endacōns unto you, I comytt you to Go who kepe us ever his.

Yo^r very loyng uncle and frynd,
J. Heigham.

From Bury, this 4 of September, 1598.

The next letter is without date, but it must have been written between the year 1596 and 1606, for Sir Philip Wodehouse, one of the persons to whom it was addressed was knighted for his valour, by the Earl of Essex, immediately after the capture o Cadiz, in 1596; and Sir B. Gawdy, another of the parties addressed, died in 1606. It is not improbable that it was written in 1599, for in the month of August in the year, according to Reyce (Breviary of Suffolk, MS. Mus. Brit.) authority, " calle certain forces both footmen and horsemen out of this Shire into the parts of Essex nea London for defence of the Court against several purposes intended (i.e. to keep down the disaffected); when there went out of this Shire certain troopes of horsemen wel mounted with good armour and fair coats." And the peremptory demand to view cer tain lances which so highly raised the indignation of the writer of this letter may have been connected with that levy.

Sir Clement Heigham to Sir Arthur Heveningham and others,

" After my harty com'endacōn. This p'sent eveninge home to my house, I founde I're directed unto me from you with a peremptory co'mand for the vieweinge certeyne Lawnces appointed to be shewed for this county. Thus in haste I co'mitt you to God, and res Yo^r Loveinge frende,

" To the righte Worpl Sr Arthur Heveningham, Sr Phillip Woodhouse, Sr Bassing borne Gawdy, and Sir Nathaniel Bacon, Knights, or to any of them. Haste this."

1602. The same to Sir Bassingbourne Gawdy, Knight and Sheriff.

Requests him to procure the release of a " Neighbour of myne in Bungeye on Joh Browne, injuriously pressed.

Your assuered lovinge frende and kinsman,
Clement Heigham."

1604. Sept. 16. Sir John Heigham to Sir P. Woodhouse and Sir B. Gawdy.

The writer apologizes for not meeting them according to promise, to view the river between Thetford and Brandon, &c., &c.

"Ther hath a lamentable mishap fallen out to a nece of myne by the untymely death of her husband where in I am enforced to bestow some travail."

Y^r very loyng frydny,

J. Heigham.

"To the right worshipfull my loving friends S^r Philip Woodhouse, Knt., and S^r Bas-singborne Gawdy, Knt., at Thetford."

The Crown no doubt had power to grant to a subject either as a gift, or in consideration of a money payment, any real or personal estate which had escheated or become forfeited. Instances of grants of lands escheated were of every day occurrence, so also of the right to the wardship of the infant heir, and the profits of his lands during his minority. We have given an instance of the latter in the agreement respecting such of the estates of Sir Charles Framlingham as were holden of the Crown, but the grant of a forfeited recognizance was not, we believe, of such common occurrence. The following extract, however, shews that the Crown did exercise that right: it is curious also as shewing what were the opinions of our forefathers in the days of James the First, upon a question which has of late been much agitated.

1613. July 4th. Graat to Sir Clement Higham of two hundred pounds recognizances forfeited by Thomas Buckley, of Dalham, and John Taylor, of Gazeley, both in county of Suffolk, for the non-appearance of Buckley before the Consistory of St Paul's, to answer for his marriage with Margaret Notts, his late wife's sister. (Calendar of State Papers, Domestic).

1620. June 19. Schedule, drawn up by Sir John Heigham and James Smith, by order of the Council, of the Brewers in the several Hundreds in the Franchise of Bury, in Suffolk, to serve the innkeepers, ale-house keepers, and others—total number, 30. (Papers, Domestic, James I, vol. 116, Act. 93.)

The next document relates to the duties of Deputy Lieutenants of Counties in the first year of Charles the First.

1625. Suff. We, whose names are hereunder subscribed, being Deputie Lieutenant in the countie affores^t, Doe hereby certifie to all to whom this shall or maye concerne, that Richard Mosley, of Owsden, within the Hundred of Risbridge, in the ffranchise of Burye St Edmonde, in the countye of Suffolk, Esquire, hath been here resident with his family during the space of fifteen yeares or thereabouts, and ys here charged with the fyndyng of a Lawnce furnished, a corslett and a musquet furnished, and the same as often as is required, which we think to be apportioned sufficient for his whole estate. In testimony whereof, we have hereunto subscribed our names and sett our seals, this 19 day of December, in the fyrist yeare of y^e Reigne of our Soveraigne Lord King Charles, An'o Dm'i 1625.

J. Heigham,
Wyll. Poley."

(State Papers, Domestic, vol. xii, N. 14.)

Richard Heigham, the writer of the next letter, appears to have been the eldest son of Clement Heigham (son of Edmond), of Heigham Hall (other issue of Clement are mentioned in pedigree A), and to have succeeded to the leasehold interest (see Note o to pedigree A) in the Heigham Hall estate, on his father's death. This Richard died in 1653, he was buried at Gayseley, 25th February, in that year; and was succeeded by his brother John, who, by his will, dated 10 Sep. 1657, in which he describes himself as of Heigham Hall, desires to be buried in the chancell of the parish church, Gaseley, "as near my deare and lovinge mother, lately deceased, as may be" (she v buried at Gaseley in Sept. 1656), and gives legacies to, amongst others, his sister Anne Heigham, and his sister Baldwin; and appoints his uncle, Mr. Will^m Davie, his executor. This will was proved in the Prerog. Court in 1661. Anne Heigham, his sister by her will made in 1676, also mentions her sister Sarah Balding (Baldwin), and 1 children. It appears from these wills and the following letter that Anne, the wife Clement Heigham, of Heigham Hall, was the sister of William Davy, to whom this letter is addressed; and that the writer's connexion with the Baldwins, who were Heigham, arose from the marriage of his sister with one of that family. She is probably the Sarah Baldwin, widow, who died in 1677, and to whom there is a flat stone, w an inscription within the altar rails of Gaseley church.

Richard Heigham to William Davy.

"Mr. Davy, there is a suite that my cosen Balwind did follow for his brother, Jo Litton; and now he beinge dede, my cosen Litton was advised by his mother, my cos Heigham, to write to you to stand his friend in the business. Mr. Nunn, of Bury, attorney for him, who can relate to you the wholl business; and he doubts not but shall recover for Litton 20*l* upon a bond that his fater-in-lawe, on Francis Bumsted who married John Litton's mother, is tyde for. The suite is in John Litton's name and the next assises it will cum to a trial: and in the meane tyme if the p'ties do agree to put it to order, your sister Heigham will desier you to be for Litton; and hope you will be the willinger to doe him what kindness you can in regard his wife your goddaughter. And if y^r suite should now cease, and not be p'ceded in, Littt should loose all his charges, and pay Bumsted's to, wh. will cum to xⁱⁱ or thereabout and if you doe disburse any money to Mr. Nunn, the Atturyn, John Litton promise the fayth of an honest man to pay it to you againe suddenly. Thus hoopeinge you w stand friende, and you noe ways to suffer by it. My best respects, and my cosen Litton service being remembered to you, I com'end you to God, and rest

Heigham Hall,

this 7th of May, 1652.

To his most lovinge friende Mr. William Davy, at Mr. Harry Davy, at the sign the Golden Anchor, against St. Dunstan's church, in Fleet Street, London."

The following letter is from Clement Heigham, of Barrow, one of the Knights of t intended order of the Royal Oak.

1664. "Sr, I thank you for yo^r civil promise to me, as to accomodation of me v 2 or 300*l*, at my desired time, and as for that or any other sum of money that you sh^t pay me in Octob. next, over and above what is agreed upon, as be it 500*l*. or more less, I shall, according to your motion, be contented to allow you interest for it for longe time as I received it before it was payable; or else forbare you so much answerable time out of the third or last payment.

Now, as to the business of Lound Woode, at 9*l*. 3*s*. 6*d*. a yeaire in my particular you, thus: that I did not mention ther that it was leaten for 9*l*. 3*s*. 6*d*. p' ann., but valued it ther at 8*s*. an accr. p' ann., at which rate it comes to 9*l*. 3*s*. 6*d*. p' ann., as so I did then and doe still consider it, to be really worth 8*s*. an acre p' ann. Besid had that slight fellowe Bishop leate so much of it as is pasture at Mich^s last for 7*s*. ann. as I appointed him (of w^{ch} I profess I knewe nothing to the contrary, untill wth this 10 weeks or ther abouts) then it had not come much short of my valuation of it my particular, for ther ought to be 4 acres of underwoode (if I was not abused in t stubbing of that Woode), which is reserved to me, &c., w^{ch} 4 acres at 8*s*. an acre ann., comes to 1*l*. 12*s*. a yeaire more, which putt to 7*l*. a yeaire, makes the whole 12*s*. p' ann. And although this may reasonably satisfie you, yett it shall not serve t turne; for in half a word thus, I will be tenant to it at the rent in my particular until such time as I can leate it to a sufficient man at the same rent; w^{ch} I suppose will undeniably satisfactory. And I doubt not but to leate it so before a year to an ex for he that now useth it, hath it but from yeare to yeare, as I hope. I am sure I order it noe otherwise.

S^r, Albeit, you were somewhat hard to me in the bargaine, yett be confident you shall finde as fayre and handsome dealing from me as in reason you can wish or desire. Beyond w^{ch}, I suppose, you will not desire. And if any considerable prejudice should accrue to you by reason of any inadvertancy or forgetfulness, I will bear it and not you. If in any thing I may be truly serviceable to you, it will much rejoice him who is,

S^r, Yours in any civill and friendly office,
C. Heigham."

From Barrough, 10th May, 1664.

"For my respected friend M^r Samuell Baker, at M^r Thorpe's house, at the Grave-Morris, in Leaden-hall Streete, in London. This."

The next letter is from Bedingfield,* the third son of the last mentioned Clement Heigham and Elizabeth (Longe) his wife. He was a merchant in London, and is no doubt the uncle Heigham frequently mentioned by his nephew Heigham Bright (the younger son of Thomas Bright, of Nether Hall, in Thurston), in his correspondence with his own family (see Brights of Suffolk). The nephew was apprenticed to his uncle Bedingfield Heigham.

"London, March 13th, 169th.

"S^r—I received yo^r of y^e 9 inst. You say therein I may very well stay till yo^r son goes beyond seas before I receive the remaining money, which is an impoſition contrary to my expectation and yo^r promise, and not custemary. Likewise, you seeme not well satisfied that yo^r son should be sent for Spane and not Turky; which I think is yo^r great mistake; for you may be assured if I was not fully persuaded the trade for Spane would yield greater advantage than Turky, I shoud not imploy my stock that way, which I shoud do in case he went for Spane. Besides, one thousand pounds in Spane by reason of its nearness, and making quick returns, may be more advantage to the factor than sending double the sume to Turky.

I cannot but take it amiss that you should seeme to intimate that I was under any obligation, excepting as a friend, to act otherwise than other march^{ts} to their Prentices, because you have by you some papers of my writing before we made a positive agreement. I never expected that these papers which were only scribbled over at yo^r request to form diuers scemes and to see which method you should like best, would be trumpt up, or made any use of by you, after we had resolved upon a different method; therefore, to prevent any mistakes hereafter, I do desire you to send them to yr son: and let me see them burnt, being of no ma'ner of use now, and to prevent any more mistakes.

You often, likewise, reflect upon the great sume given at his apprenticeship, it was your own act, and I told you then I was unwilling so soon to undertake that charge, and I assure you, had it not been to a friend, I would not have taken it upon me for more than that w^{ch} you are to give.

It's my firm resolution, Cousin, so long as I live, to act sincerely and faithfully, and to perform according to the best of my ability whatsoever I promise, and in this assurance I wish you may always rest satisfied, and I hope you will upon further experience

* There is an error in the Pedigree of Heigham, of Barrow, with reference to the death of the above mentioned Bedingfield Heigham. It is there stated that he died before 1667—the above letter proves that he was living in 1697—for although his uncle, who was also named Bedingfield, was alive at the date of the letter, it could not have been written by him, as it is signed B. Heigham, junr. The error arose thus: William, the fourth son and younger brother of Bedingfield, was admitted of Lincoln's Inn in 1667, and in the books of that society is described as "filius tertius Clementis Heigham, de Barrow," and, according to the extracts from the Barrow Registers, John, the second son, died in 1676, and as there was no record of the death of Bedingfield, the inference appeared to be that Bedingfield had died before 1667, so as to constitute William at that date the third son. Probably there is some error as to the date of the death of John the second son.

The next letter, written in 1712, and the last we shall give, is from Clement He ham, Rector of Barrow, to his brother-in-law Thomas Bright, of Nether Hall, but th living at Thorpe Morieux. The writer died in 1714, when all interest of the Heigh family in Barrow ceased.

ERRATA AND ADDENDA.

HEIGHAM PEDIGREE, BY GLOVER.

In last line of this pedigree, for Thomas read Edward Lewkenor; in the note at f of the engraving of the quartered shield, for 1597 read 1579.

DENHAM CHURCH MONUMENT AND LEWKENOR PEDIGREE.

The Lewkenor pedigree, which we have given above, shews how that family became entitled to bear the principal coats which appear on their quartered shield on t monument. It is, however, worthy of remark, that whilst they, in right of the mai ages of Sir Thomas Lewkenor (living A^o 1356) with Joane, daughter and heir of John Doyly, of Stoke Doyly, in Northamptonshire, and Ranton, in Staffordshi quartered the arms of Doyly, they did not quarter the arms of Dunston (Gules, a bu head caboshed Argent); although they inherited Ranton, which had descended from Dunstons, in right of this marriage. The Knightley family (Knightley, Barts., of Fawley Park), who also claim descent through the Doyly's from the same Sir William Dunston, quarter this coat of Dunston as well as that of Doyly. (See Knightley Pedigree, Mis. Gen. et Her., vol. 1, p. 88). This is in fact one of those cases in whic member of a family, even of considerable importance, has on his marriage with an heir, although retaining his own name, abandoned his own armorial bearings and assun those of the family whose heiress he had married.

The coat originally borne by the Doyly family (who came into England with Conqueror, and obtained from him a grant of many goodly manors and lordships Oxfordshire and elsewhere) was Azure two bars Or, but on the marriage, temp. H. (see Lewkenor Pedigree), of Sir John Doyly, the representative of a younger bran with Rose, eldest daughter and coheir of Sir William de Dunston of Ranton, in Staffs^{hire}, and Dunston, in Northamptonshire, this branch of the Doyly family abando their paternal coat and assumed the arms of Dunston, which they bore without alte during the times of Edward I and II; but which, after that period, they varied increasing the number of buck's heads to three, being the coat quartered by Lewkenor as for Doyly.*

There were two other daughters and coheirs of Sir William de Dunston (see above Lewkenor Pedigree): one married Walter Graye (de Grey), of Rotherfield, in Oxfordshire (afterwards called Rotherfield Greys), ancestor of the Barons Grey, of Rotherfield, which title is now extinct. The other married Manyers (Sir Manger) Vavasour, younger son of Sir William Vavasour, of Haslewood, in Yorkshire, fifth in descent from Manger le Vavasour, temp. Will. I; from Sir Manger descended the Vavasours of Weston, Acaster and Copmanthorpe, in the county of York.

DEBENHAM CHURCH MONUMENT.

In further explanation of the quarterings of the Framlingham shield on this monument, it should be stated that Sir John Nevill (who, in 1470, was created Marquess of Montagu, as before mentioned, and who was the younger brother of Richard, Earl of Warwick, "the King Maker"), married Isabell, daughter and sole heir of Sir Edmund Ingoldsthorpe (Inglethorpe), by Joane, daughter and coheir of John de Tibetot, summoned to Parliament in 1426 as Baron Tibetot. Sir Edmund Ingoldsthorpe was son and heir of Sir Thomas Ingoldsthorpe, by Margaret, daughter and heir of Sir Walter de la Pole, first cousin of William de la Pole, fourth Earl of Suffolk. Margaret was the daughter of Sir Walter by his wife Elizabeth, only daughter and heiress of Sir Thomas de Bradeston, second Baron Bradeston. The Ingoldsthorpes quartered Burgh in right of their descent from the heiress of the de Burghs, of Burgh or Burrough Green, in Cambridgeshire, and Joane Tibetot quartered the arms of Cherleton in right of her mother Joyce, daughter and one of the coheirs of Edward Cherleton Lord Powys.

CLERE PEDIGREE.

In a note to this pedigree is given all that now remains of the inscription on the brass in Stokesbie church, to Edmund Clere (who died in 1487) and Elizabeth his wife, daughter and heir of Thomas Charles. This was a very fine brass and nearly perfect when Cotman made his drawings; it is engraved in his work. The arms of Charles as they then appeared were Ermine on a chief Gules four lozenges of the field. The Charles family were of Kettleborough, in Suffolk, which manor they attained by grant from the Crown about the year 1261. The marriage of one of this family with Henry de Mounines has been noticed in the short account before given of the Mounines family. (See Notes to Pedigree of Heigham of Barrow).

Cotman gives an engraving of another brass in this church to Anna (who died in 1570) the wife of Sir Thomas Clere and daughter and heir of Robert Gygges (Jegges). This lady had three husbands, their arms, impaling hers, appeared on three separate shields on this stone. The arms of Gygges were Sable a fret Ermine, a chief chequy Argent and Sable. This brass is not noticed in Blomefield's Norfolk.

The brass in the same church to Anne (who died in 1614), wife of Thomas Clere, and daughter and heir of Thomas Heigham, has been previously described. (See Inscriptions in Stokesby Church). This last mentioned brass is not noticed by Cotman.

HEIGHAM OF HEIGHAM PEDIGREE.

It is stated by mistake in this pedigree that Margaret, daughter of John Braham (of Wetheringsett) was the first wife of Sir Thomas Blenerhasset: she was the second wife; he married first, Jane, daughter of Sutton. Margaret survived her husband, who died in 1531, her death was in 1561. As the family of Blenerhasset is extinct in Norfolk and Suffolk, we add the following short notice of them. This family took its name from Blenerhasset, in Cumberland, where the eldest branch long continued, but removed to Ireland in the reign of Elizabeth, and which branch is now represented by Sir Rowland Blennerhassett, of Blennerville, co. Kerry, Bart. The first of this family who settled at Frense was Ralph, who married Joan, daughter and heir of Lowdham, by whose marriage he acquired the estates of Frense, in Norfolk; Lowdham, in Suffolk; and Kelvedon, in Essex; the last mentioned estate the Lowdham family had obtained by marriage about the year 1300 of Sir John Lowdham, with Joan, daughter and heir of Sir William de Kelvedon. John, the son of Ralph, married first, Margaret Heigham; his second wife was Jane, daughter of Sir Thomas Tindall; Sir Thomas Blennerhasset the eldest son by the first wife, had issue by his first wife, Jane Sutton, a son George who left an only daughter and heir, Mary, who married first, Thomas Culpeper, and secondly, Francis Bacon; she died without issue, in 1587, having settled her estates on her second husband, and Edmund his son by a former marriage, for their lives. The estates then reverted to John Blennerhasset, son of Sir Thomas by his second wife, married first, Elizabeth, daughter of Sir John Cornwallis, of Brome; and secondly, Mary, daughter and co-heir of Sir Edward Echingham, of Barsham, by whom he acquired the Barsham estate, and by whom he had, with other issue, Thomas Blennerhasset, of Barsham, who died without issue in 1599. Sir Thomas Blennerhasset had four daughters by his second wife, Margaret Braham—Anne, wife of George Duke, of Brampton; Agnes, wife of Sir Anthony Rous, of Dennington; Margaret, who married first, John Spelman, son and heir apparent of Sir John Spelman, of Narburgh,* and secondly, to John Eyer, Receiver General to Queen Elizabeth, in the counties of Norfolk, Suffolk, &c., and Master in Chancery; and Katherine married first, to ... Gonal, and secondly, to Sir Anthony Wingfield.

* A similar instance has been before noticed in a note to the Lewkenor pedigree, where Dike assumed the arms of Sr John, having married an heiress of that family, and Goring quartered the arms of Sr John as for Dike.

The arms of Robert Deynes, of Barrow, who married Anne, daughter of Edmund Heigham, of Heigham Hall, were Or two bars Gules, within a bordure Sable. The family was also of Coddenham, Suffolk.

HEIGHAM OF GIFFORDES PEDIGREE.

John Hilles, D.D., by his will dated 13 Septr, 1625, and proved (Cur. Prærog. Cant. Dec. 1626, describes himself of Fulborne, in the county of Cambridge, Master Catherine Hall, and Archdeacon of Lincoln, mentions his eldest son John Hilles, his second son Heigham Hilles, and also four other sons, Thomas, William, Robert, and John the younger. (He describes his eldest son as John the elder). He mentions also five daughters, Anne, Blanch, Jane, Mirable and Susan.

Page, in his Top. and Gen. History of Suffolk, under the parish of Barham, states that Nicholas Bacon, eldest son and heir of Edward Bacon (third son of the Lord Keepe by Helen, daughter and heir of Thomas Lyttle, of Bray (she brought the Shrubland estate to this branch of the Bacon family), married Bridget, daughter of Lionel Talmache, Helmingham. This statement directly contradicts the above pedigree, where it appears that Nicholas Bacon, son and heir of Edward, married Martha, sole daughter and heiress of Sir Richard Bingham, by his wife Sarah Heigham. This marriage was given on the authority of Sylvanus Morgan, and the extracts from the Lawford registers afford strong proof of its correctness: it was possible, however, there was no surviving issue of the marriage, and that this Nicholas Bacon might have married Bridget Talmache for his second wife: a reference, however to the Bacon pedigree in Davy's MSS. (Add. MS 19,116) removes all doubt. It appears that Page has omitted a generation, that Nicholas, the son of Edward, married Martha Bingham, and that their eldest son, Sir Nicholas Bacon, Knight of the Bath (the grandson of Edward) married Bridget, daughter of Sir Lionel Talmache. Nicholas, the eldest son of the last mentioned Sir Nicholas, married Catherine, daughter of Edward, first Earl of Sandwich, by Jemima, daughter of the first Lord Crew, of Stene, who was a descendant therefore (see the above pedigree as well as her husband, of the same Sarah Heigham).

* John Spelman, the eldest son of this marriage, married Judith, daughter of Clement Heigham. (See Pedigree D.)

In note (j) to this pedigree, Edward Waldegrave is described as the son of Edmund Waldegrave, for Edmund read Edward. The Ackworths, whose heiress brought the Lawford estate to the Waldegraves, were of Luton, in Bedfordshire.

HEIGHAM OF BARROW PEDIGREE.

Gage (Hist. of Suff.) in his pedigree of Heigham of Barrow, has incorrectly stated that Thomas Heigham, second son of Sir Clement Heigham, Chief Baron, died without issue (and as it would appear from that pedigree, unmarried), and was buried at Ampton; that this was probably an error as noticed in Proceedings of West Suff. Arch. Inst., vol. i, p. 54, where it is suggested that this Thomas Heigham, had two daughters, co-heiresses, whose marriages at Ampton are extracted from the register. The real error appears to have been in assuming that the Thomas Heigham, who was buried at Ampton, was the son of Sir Clement. In the pedigree of Heigham of Heigham, we have shown that this Thomas was the second son of Edmund Heigham and Margery Shelton; his descent, marriage, and the account of his children are taken from Sylvanus Morgan, and the extracts from the Rougham and Ampton registers agree with that account.

Thomas Heigham, the second son of Sir Clement, was undoubtedly married; his marriage is given in this pedigree on the authority of Sylvanus Morgan; and his letter, written in 1594, to Sir Bassingbourne Gawdy, mentions his wife. This Thomas Heigham is probably the same person whom Davy (MSS. Mus. Brit.) mentions, on the authority of Ashmole's Order of the Garter, as one of the gentlemen who, in the 9th of Elizabeth (1567) attended the Earl of Sussex (Sir Thomas Ratcliffe, K.G., third Earl of Sussex) in his embassy to the Emperor Maximilian to invest him with the Order of the Garter.

It is stated in the note on the Gawdy family, that Sir Charles Gawdy was created a Baronet in 1611; for 1611, read 1661.

In 1587, Sir John Heigham settled Little Southwood Park on his second son Thomas. (Gage's Suffolk). This Thomas appears to have been in the service of, or to have held some office under Lord Treasurer Burleigh. See above the Articles of Agreement respecting Sir Charles Framlingham's estate.

There was issue of the marriage of Richard Bennet with Lettice, daughter of Sir John Heigham, two daughters and coheirs only, Anne and Dorothy. (Harl. MS. 6,065, Bennet Pedigree.)

It appears from the above pedigree that Robert, fourth son of Sir John Heigham, married Anne, daughter and heir of Henry Heron, of St Edmundsbury, by Anne, daughter and coheir of John Masham, of Badwell Ash. As the family of Masham are quite extinct in Suffolk, a few words respecting them may not be out of place. They came originally from Yorkshire into Norfolk, and from thence into Suffolk. John Masham, the first who settled at Badwell Ash, had two sons, John, who succeeded to the estate at Badwell, and William, who was Alderman and Sheriff for London in 1553. John was the father of another John, whose eldest daughter and coheir married, as before mentioned, Henry Heron, of St Edmundsbury; the other daughter and coheir married Edmund Bacon, the eldest son of Edmund Bacon, of Hessett, by Elizabeth, daughter of Richard Cornwallis, of Shotley.

William Masham, the Alderman, was grandfather of Sir William Masham, of Otes and High Laver, in Essex, created a Baronet in 1621, who married Joane, daughter of Sir Francis Barrington, Bart., whose great-grandson, Sir Samuel Masham, married Abigail, daughter of Francis Hill, a Turkey Merchant, and a near relative of the celebrated Sarah Duchess of Marlborough. This lady was the Lady Masham, well known in history, who supplanted her relative, the Duchess of Marlborough, in the affections of Queen Anne, became the reigning favourite, and obtained complete ascendancy over the mind of her Sovereign. In 1712, her husband Sir Samuel was raised to the peerage as Baron Masham. This title became extinct in 1776. Arms of Masham of Badwell —Or, a fess humettee Gules, between two lions passant Sable.

In the note respecting the Skippon family, it is stated that Luke Skippon, D.D., had five daughters, all of whom, except Susan, the wife of Clement Heigham, died without issue. This note was compiled partly from information communicated by Mr. Grigson, and partly from the notes in the Skippon Bible, and the introductory notice of that family printed in Mis. Gen. et Her. From the latter source this statement was taken : it seems however, not to be correct.

From further information, for which we are again indebted to Mr. Grigson, it appears that Frances, the eldest of the five daughters, married John Franklyn, Rector of Tittleshall, in Norfolk, and left, with other issue, a son, John Franklin of Mileham, a Rector of Gressenhall, in Norfolk, ancestor of John Franklin, Esquire, of Great Barford Bedfordshire, and Gonalston, Nottinghamshire. Jane, the youngest, married Roger Hainsworth of West Lynn : she died the 17th of September, 1685, and was buried at West Lynn church.

The two other daughters, Mary and Ann, died unmarried. Mary was buried at Swaffham, in 1713, aged 71 years ; and Ann at South Lynn, in 1694.

HEIGHAM OF HUNSTON PEDIGREE.

It appears from their seal that the bendlet in the arms of Lurkin, of Hunston, was (Or) charged with three fleur-de-lis (Azure), and not gobony Or and Azure, as above stated.

We have inserted, in a note to this pedigree, the inscription on the monument in Desingham church to John Pell : an etching of the effigies of him and his wife, taken from the engraving on the upper slab of this altar tomb, is given in Cotman's brasses. He is dressed as a civilian, and in his robes as Mayor. On the sides of the tomb are the six sons and three daughters ; and at the east end the arms of Pell impaling Ove end. Cotman (Norfolk and Suffolk Brasses) says, "although his work professes to give only the most remarkable sepulchral Brasses, he is irresistibly impelled to give this, an engraving in stone, both as an excellent example of costume, and as a memorial singular in this county (Norfolk) ; there are few such in the whole kingdom. In France they are common."

There is a strange mistake in the above pedigree as to the date of the death of Henry Heigham ; the date given is the 9th of Dec., 1832, which is the date of his wife (Elizabeth Symonds) death, and which is omitted in the proper place under her name. He died the 29th of Dec., 1834 (See Mon. Inscr. Hunston).

The following coats of arms were omitted in the above pedigree : Birch, Azure, three fleurs-de-lis and a canton Argent. Ray, Azure, on a chief indented Or three martlets Gules. Phillips, Or, a lion rampant Sable a chief of the second. Fraser, Azure, three cinquefoils Argent.

The Frasers of Mount Murray are descended from John, fifth son of Thomas Fraser, fourth Baron Lovat in the peerage of Scotland, by his second wife Janet, daughter of Andrew, third Baron Gray of Gray, in the peerage of Scotland.

Simon Fraser, grandfather of the before mentioned John Malcolm Fraser, was killed at Culloden, in 1746. Malcolm, son of Simon and father of John Malcolm, obtained the Seignory of Mount Murray, on the St. Lawrence, in Lower Canada, and settled there. The christian names of Forsyth were Henry George.
